Ex-Nazis To Head German Draft Army

Bonn, Germany (AP)—Western Germany has secretly completed plans for a draft army modeled on American lines to join the proposed European defense force, Western Allied officials disclosed yesterday.

The top-secret plans—hammered out behind closed doors by former officers from Hitler's Wehrmacht—call for drafting young Germans between the ages of 18 and 21, the officials said. German military planners estimate that youths in these age groups number at least 1,250,000 men.

The 18-year-olds alone are expected to total about 400,000, or more than enough to form the probable German contingent of 250,000 men in the six-nation European Army.

German leaders have firmly rejected a volunteer army in planning Germany's military comeback, the Allied officials said. The powerful labor unions and key political figures feel that a volunteer force would be made up of adventurers, the jobless and aristocratic former officers.

Since France and other nations in the proposed European Army already draft their military manpower, the Germans intend to adopt a conscription system modeled after the U. S. Selective Service system.

The key men in drafting the plans were stony-faced Theodor Blank, 45, and two Hitler-era generals—Adolf Heusinger and Hans Speidel.

Blank, who fought against the Allies from start to finish of World War Two, heads what is officially called the "service office of the federal chancellor."

General Heusinger, former operations chief of the German high command, and General Speidel, Rommel's chief of staff, are Blank's chief military advisers. They have been working in the deepest secrecy to keep the Bonn government's military plans from becoming a political football before the six West European nations agree to form a unified defense force.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has predicted that a decision will be reached when the six Eleven plan foreign ministers meet in Paris late this month.

Compared with the 200-odd divisions that Hitler flung at his neighbors, the German contribution to the European Army will be small—a maximum of 12 divisions in the official view here.

Top Brass Meets With Churchill

Washington, (AP)—Britain's Prime Minister Churchill and top military leaders of the United States yesterday held a two-hour Pentagon meeting which Secretary of Defense Lovett called just a social gathering.

A luncheon given by Lovett for the visiting chief of government and diplomatic and military officials was bracketed by two long sessions of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff and top British military officers.

They conferred for two and a half hours before the luncheon, then later returned to the office of Gen. Omar Bradley, U. S. Joint Chiefs chairman, for renewed talks.

Lovett said he would see Mr. Churchill again today when formal meetings are started at the White House.

Significance was added to the Pentagon talk by Mr. Churchill's comment Saturday that he looked forward to renewal of the comradeship and friendship of World War Two days and that peace could be preserved with the help of America's "vast strength."

Lovett and the dozen top uniformed and civilian chiefs of the Pentagon were in position to tell Mr. Churchill how the military part of that vast strength is being assembled for protection of the U. S. and the mutual defense of the world's free nations.

Mr. Churchill had said he did not regard the danger of war with Russia now as greater than at the crisis of the Berlin airlift. He thought "the prospects for world peace are solid in 1952."

New York, (AP)—Frank Costello reputed kingpin of an alliance of crime and politics, goes on trial today, accused of contempt of the Senate in refusing to answer questions put to him by the Kefauver committee.

Eight-Year-Old Henryville Boy Experiences Third Bit Of Hard Luck Within Three Months

Henryville — Sammy Tucker, Henryville, has earned himself a reputation as an unlucky young man in his neighborhood.

Sammy has been the victim of three bits of bad luck during the same number of months.

In October, Sammy was playing "around the house" with his brother and sister using a pair of suspenders for a lariat. After a couple of rodeo-type flings and some cowboy and Indian maneuvers Sammy was hit by the clip-end of the suspenders.

The clip struck the boy in the right eye. He was taken to Willis Eye hospital in Philadelphia for treatment.

After several return trips to the hospital and treatment by

Outnumbered Sabres Down Seven MIGs, Damage Ten

Seoul, Korea, Monday, (AP)—U. S. Sabre jets—outnumbered two to one—today shot down two more red-nosed MIGs and damaged two others in the second day of furious air battles high over northwest Korea. The swept-wing American fighters blasted five of the Russian-built jets from the skies yesterday and damaged 10 in four spectacular dog-fights.

There was no announcement of any American losses. Under a new policy, the U. S. Fifth Air Force reports losses only in a weekly summary. The North Korean communique claimed three Allied planes were shot down during the day, but didn't say where or how. Altogether, 79 U. S. jets were opposed yesterday by 196 MIGs.

The U. S. Eighth Army communique last night told of a continuing small but bitter battle on the western front west of Korangpo.

Reds Refuse To Compromise

Munsan, Korea, (AP)—Communist negotiators appeared less truculent in Korean truce talks Sunday, but still turned down all United Nations proposals for compromise.

Nevertheless, new sessions were held 11 a. m. today (9 p. m., Sunday EST).

An Allied plan for exchanging prisoners and displaced civilians was labeled "untenable and impractical" by the Reds even though they showed a willingness for the first time to listen to a detailed explanation of the proposal.

The Reds also held out for the right to reconstruct airfields during an armistice.

This met strong Allied objections and a reminder that the Communists were now shipping a "considerable striking force" of Russian-built MIG jets into Korea.

"These military aircraft, combined with airfields, would constitute a grave threat to the U. N. Forces during an armistice," contended the U. N.

a local physician, Sammy has regained partial use of his eye. He still does not have normal vision, however.

In November, Sammy and some other children were playing near the Tucker home when a neighborhood dog suddenly bit Sammy on the left leg.

Back went Sammy to the doctor's office—this time for treatment of a dog bite and an inoculation for rabies.

The Tuckers were convinced nothing more could happen to their son—at least during 1951. But Sammy proved them wrong during the closing hours of the old year.

The weekend before the New Year began, Sammy was playing on a sled in the Tucker driveway.

Guns-Butter Policy To Be Continued

Washington (AP)—Mobilization Director Charles E. Wilson disclosed yesterday the government has re-examined the guns-with-butter policy of building up the nation's military might and has decided to stick with it.

In a report to President Truman, Wilson described "tremendous" armament gains in 1951. He said they were achieved with little disruption of industry or joblessness. The "severest pinch" on civilians has begun, he said, and will run into 1953.

Certain military goals may be raised as a result of the policy re-examination, he reported. In general this will mean not higher production schedules but longer ones.

Wilson asked for legislation to fortify both price and credit controls against a possible 1952 flare-up of inflation.

Body Of Widow's Assailant Found

Philadelphia (AP)—The body of a Pittsburgh man sought in 14 states for the shooting of a former girl friend was found last night with a bullet fired through the head.

The body of Joseph K. Edwards, 32-year-old former divinity student, was found lying on the west bank of the Schuylkill river behind the 30th St. station of the Pennsylvania railroad.

Det. Joseph McGurk of the homicide bureau, said Edwards could have been shot Saturday night a few hours after he critically wounded Mrs. Suzanne Reid, Houston, Tex., widow.

Seven—Dayton McKean, chairman of the New Hampshire Democratic committee said of the Lodge announcement: "It looks as if the mountain has kind of brought forth a mouse, doesn't it? Most people have always thought Eisenhower was a Republican." He added that there was no reason under New Hampshire law, why the general's name couldn't be filed for the Democratic nomination. If both parties filed his name, McKean said, the general would have to repudiate one party within 10 days.

Eight—Roderick McKaye, leader of the Democrats-for-Eisenhower in New Hampshire said the Lodge statement was not "any detriment to my plan to file Eisenhower in the Democratic primary." He said New York records show that Eisenhower voted as an independent there in 1942.

Nine—In Texas, Jack Porter, a member of the Republican State Executive committee, said "we're going to get that (Texas) delegation" for Eisenhower.

The past week has been uneventful at the Tucker home. The Tuckers—and Sammy—are keeping their fingers crossed, hoping it stays that way.

Says General In Race To 'The Finish'

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's name will be entered in the New Hampshire primary as a Republican candidate for president, says Senator Lodge (R-Mass.)

That was the word yesterday from the Senator, who held an extraordinary news conference in Washington to make the announcement.

Whether the general has sanctioned Lodge's action was not immediately known.

Eisenhower gave no immediate sign that he approved. But Lodge told reporters he had personal assurances that "Ike" is a Republican.

He said Eisenhower "is prohibited by Army regulation from engaging directly or indirectly in a nomination campaign" while in uniform, but that he is certain the general is in the presidential race "to the finish."

The New Hampshire primary is March 11.

Eisenhower is in Paris, where he commands the North Atlantic Treaty organization forces. No statement on the Lodge announcement was forthcoming from the general or his aides.

Lodge's conference touched off a series of developments that indicated the quickening political tempo in the campaign year of 1952. Some of those developments:

One—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, himself a two-time contender for the presidency as Republican candidate, repeated his prediction that Eisenhower would get the GOP nomination and win the election. He has supported the general for over a year.

Two—Harold Stassen, who has begun his drive for the Republican nomination for the presidency, said he had made no deal with Eisenhower during his recent visit with the NATO chief. He also announced that he would enter his name in the Illinois primary on April 8, and was anticipating entering it in the Wisconsin primary.

Three—The New York Times announced it would "enthusiastically" support Eisenhower if he becomes the Republican candidate. The paper has supported a GOP candidate only twice in the last 20 years. The paper gave foreign policy as its reason for supporting the general.

Four—The Chicago Sun-Times, which supported President Roosevelt in 1944 and President Truman in 1948, came out editorially for Eisenhower's nomination as GOP candidate and said it would support him for president if chosen.

Five—Senator Humphrey (D-Minn) was asked by top Minnesota Democrats to run for president in the Minnesota primary on March 18. He said he was not prepared to make a statement now, but promised an answer before Jan. 15, when filings for the primary open.

Six—Senator Douglas (D-Ill) who has favored Eisenhower as a Democratic presidential candidate, said at Scranton, Pa., a "margin of uncertainty" remains about the Eisenhower candidacy until the Lodge statement is confirmed by the general himself.

Seven—Dayton McKean, chairman of the New Hampshire Democratic committee said of the Lodge announcement: "It looks as if the mountain has kind of brought forth a mouse, doesn't it? Most people have always thought Eisenhower was a Republican." He added that there was no reason under New Hampshire law, why the general's name couldn't be filed for the Democratic nomination. If both parties filed his name, McKean said, the general would have to repudiate one party within 10 days.

Eight—Roderick McKaye, leader of the Democrats-for-Eisenhower in New Hampshire said the Lodge statement was not "any detriment to my plan to file Eisenhower in the Democratic primary." He said New York records show that Eisenhower voted as an independent there in 1942.

Tug Encounters Fog, Winds While Towing Enterprise; Captain Carlsen Confident

London, Monday, (AP)—Thick fog blanketed the Flying Enterprise early today as the towing tug Turmoil reported visibility almost zero and the wind rising.

But dauntless Capt. Kurt Carlsen, skipper of the crippled American freighter, was reported "more confident than ever" his battered ship would reach a safe harbor.

"The sea-swell is increasing, and the Enterprise is listing more—probably 70 degrees," the radio operator on the Turmoil said in a radio telephone call to the Associated Press. "But she is still being towed well."

At that time, the ship's position was reported as about 150 miles from the Cornish port of Falmouth, toward which the Flying Enterprise is heading.

"If the weather worsens, we probably won't try to make Falmouth," the radio operator said. "We'll head for the nearest port."

The Turmoil was still steaming steadily at three knots. Because the Flying Enterprise was tending to veer away at the end of the 750-yard 20-inch tow rope, there was no plan to increase the Turmoil's speed.

The U. S. destroyer Willard Keith was shepherding the confident procession toward Falmouth.

When the call was received from the Turmoil, Carlsen was asleep in the Flying Enterprise's wheel house. His sole companion aboard the damaged freighter, Mate Kenneth Dancy of the Turmoil, stood watch. They were standing watches of two hours each.

"Carlsen is more confident than ever that we'll make a safe harbor," the Turmoil's radio operator said. "And everyone else out here feels the same way."

O'Brien said use of Carlsen's radio was being limited to save its batteries. He added that many messages for the plucky captain, some of them fancy offers from publishers and promoters, were being delivered by lines.

Carlsen, who had been calm throughout six lonely days and nights aboard the battered Flying Enterprise, almost broke down late last night when the Willard Keith broadcast to him a message from his father in his father's voice. The elder Carlsen has flown to London from his home in Denmark.

Save for sips of hot tea and coffee, the Woodbridge, N. J. skipper had been getting along on dry bread since Friday, Dec. 28 while

Cotton Planter Outlives Big Fortune, Goes Broke At 97

Montgomery, Ala. (AP)—Once-wealthy Thomas Linton McCullough is broke at the age of 97 because he "lived too long — I outlived my money."

Until six months ago, the retired cotton planter got along on the remains of a fabulous fortune he built up in his younger years. Then his "one big mistake" caught up with him, left him penniless.

The proud white-bearded one-time cotton baron is on relief now, but not regretful. Outlasting his money, he jokes, "is an error I'm going to go on making just as long as I can."

A businessman, M. Cullough calculated his departure from the world of living. Both his mother and father died at 72, and "I reckoned I couldn't exceed this by more than eight years."

So when he was 75, he retired from business with enough money in the bank to keep him "the rest of my life" in the lei-

Ceremonies Slated For Court House

New four-year terms will be started this morning by ten individuals elected last November to serve in six major county offices.

Aside from the normal interest every four years in these events, historically, there is additional interest to many in the fact that two offices—county commissioners and prothonotary & clerk of the courts—will be filled or dominated by Republicans for the first time in the county's history.

There is also additional interest in the commissioners' office since this is the top administrative office of the county and, as such, controls a larger number of jobs.

Amiz F. Altomose, Brodheads-ville contractor and retiring sheriff, and W. Adolph Rake, East Stroudsburg contractor and builder, are the two Republicans who will be seated as county commissioners. Their Democratic colleague will be Granville Shiffer, Democratic county chairman, who won a second term last November.

These three men with James Gould, Republican winner of the prothonotary and clerk of the courts post; Floyd Butz, Democrat, re-elected register and recorder for a second term; Attorney Elmer D. Christine, Republican district attorney; Mahlon Beseker, Mrs. Mary Emma T. Garcia, Democratic and Republican incumbents, respectively, and John Wernett, Republican and newcomer to the office of county auditor; Jacob F. Altomose, Democrat, sheriff, will be administered their oaths of office this morning.

It appeared last night that all but Mr. Altomose, the new sheriff, would appear before President Judge Fred W. Davis in the Court room to be sworn in office.

Mr. Altomose made plans some time ago to appear before Judge Chester H. Rhodes, president of Pennsylvania's Superior court, in Judge Rhodes' court house office, to take his oath of office.

Attention centers on the organization meeting of the county commissioners. The posts they will have to fill is the meat of this interest. These positions include:

County solicitor, a position now held by Attorney Forrest J. Mervine, will probably be filled by the election of Attorney James T. Kitson, a former district attorney and former member of the FBI.

Chief clerk, now held by Miles Bossard, will probably be filled by the election of Harry Taylor, prominent Mount Pocono citizen.

The office of chief assessor, now held by Paul Mansfield Sr., and also a clerk's post in that office.

Three clerks' posts in the commissioners' office, other than chief clerk, with indications some of the present staff will be retained.

The office of inspector of weights and measures now held by Homer Singer.

Post of director of county veterans affairs now held by Mrs. Willita Rogalski with indications veterans are being consulted on this matter.

Two custodian, or janitor positions, at the court house, now held by John Biggs and Harry Walton.

Positions of superintendent of Monroe County home and matron at the county home, now held by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haney. There are various other auxiliary posts at the county home and a county farmer position which come under jurisdiction of the commissioners.

Mr. Taylor, who is scheduled to become chief clerk, is a native of Germantown, Philadelphia. For some years he was a purchasing agent and office manager for a large farm manufacturing automatic sprinkler systems.

For five years he was in construction work with the Federal government on CCC projects.

After making his home in Mount Pocono, he engaged in the resort business which he recently sold.

He is a member and secretary of Mount Pocono borough council, director and treasurer of Mt. Pocono Chamber of Commerce which he also served as president; president of Mt. Pocono Rotary club, adjutant of Mt. Pocono American Legion Post (he was a World War I veteran), and member of Pocono Mountains Fire company.

Salary Increases Go Into Effect Today For Some County Officers

Pay Boost Authorized By Assembly

Harrisburg, Pa. — Salary jumps ranging as high as 25 per cent will greet hundreds of county officers beginning next terms today.

The pay boost was authorized by the 1951 Legislature.

It will go into effect in all counties except Philadelphia and add an estimated $1 million to county salary costs.

The increases by class of county:

Seventh class (including Monroe) — sheriff, $3,300 to $4,000; commissioners, $1,900 to $2,000; district attorney, an estimated $1,000 increase depending on size of county. (The previous salary was $1,500).

Eighth class (including Pike) — Commissioners, $1,100 to $1,500; sheriff and district attorney, an estimated $1,000 increase depending on county size. (The previous salary was $1,760 for sheriff and $1,440 for commissioners).

Second class (Allegheny) — District attorney, from $11,000 to $14,000; county commissioners, chairman, $16,500 to $18,500; members, $13,200 to $15,500; all other from $11,000 to $12,500.

Third class — Sheriff, $6,600 to $7,600; coroner, $3,300 to $5,000; prothonotary, $6,600 to $7,600; clerk of courts, $5,500 to $7,600; register of wills, $4,400 to $5,300; recorder of deeds, $5,500 to $7,600; treasurer, $5,500 to $6,400; controller, $6,600 to $8,500; commissioners, $6,600 to $9,250; district attorney, $8,250 to $9,250.

Fourth class — District attorney $6,600 to $8,000; sheriff, $6,600 to $7,300; prothonotary, $6,600 to $7,300; clerk of courts, $4,400 to $7,300; register of wills, $4,400 to $5,300; recorder of deeds, $4,400 to $7,300; treasurer, $5,500 to $6,200; commissioners, $5,500 to $8,000; coroner, $3,000 to $4,500.

Fifth class — Sheriff, $4,400 to $6,000; coroner, $4,400 to $6,000; prothonotary, $4,400 to $6,000; clerk of quarter sessions courts, $3,300 to $6,000; register of wills, $5,500 to $6,000; recorder of deed, $4,400 to $6,000; clerk of orphans court, $3,300 to $6,000; commissioners, $4,400 to $6,500; treasurer, $5,500 to $6,000; district attorney, $5,500 to $6,000.

Sixth class — Clerk of quarter sessions court, $2,750 to $4,000; treasurer, $4,400 to $4,800; controller, $3,300 to $5,000; clerk of orphans court, $2,750 to $3,500; prothonotary, $3,300 to $5,000; recorder of deeds, $3,300 to $4,400; register of wills, $3,300 to $4,000; sheriff, $4,400 to $5,000; commissioners, $3,300 to $5,000; district attorney, an approximate $1,000 increase depending on county size.

In cases where duties of two officials are combined in one office, the official will receive $500 increase plus the salary for the office with the higher pay.

LOADING UP FOR the big auction, East Stroudsburg PTA chairman, Mrs. Earle Slutter, outside the truck, and Mrs. Harry Heller, inside with her daughter Riva, are shown getting ready for the sale tonight at the East Stroudsburg Junior High school. CLU Political League Meets With Two Local Legislators

The Central Labor union's "League for Political Education" held a conference yesterday with Sen. Montgomery F. Crowe and Rep. John Shotwell to discuss the implications of State bill No. 408.

The bill, which combines pension and compensation benefits for aged workers, had been passed by the 1952 legislative session.

Senator Crowe, after discussing the bill with labor representatives present at the meeting, announced he, personally, would offer an amendment to the bill during the 1953 session, according to an official of the union.

CLU members again brought up the classification of Monroe county as a "sub-wage area." The union has been carrying on an extensive campaign for classification of this area as an "industrial area."

Following the conference with Crowe and Shotwell, the union met in monthly session for the installation of new officers.

Paul Dellaria presided at the installation of the following officials for 1952: president, John Farley; vice president, Russell Buzzard; recording secretary, Mrs. John Farley; corresponding secretary, George M. Rung; secretary-treasurer, Raymond Poorstra; sergeant-at-arms, James Brimer; auditors, Paul Dellaria, Thomas Sexton and Eugene Strunk.

As his first official act, Farley appointed a series of committees made up of CLU members.

Appointed to an organization committee were Joseph DeRenzi, Harry Bauman and Glen Klinger; political education committee, Walter Arnold, George Rung, George Altman, Ray Poorstra and Herb Reisenwitz; publicity, George Rung and Mrs. John Farley; education committee, Ray Poorstra, Walter Arnold and George Rung.

Surviving are five sons, Gilbert, Howard, Melvin and Elwood Mood, all of Trenton, N. J., and Ford Mood, Echo Lake, Pa.; two daughters, Mrs. Leonard Evans, Trenton and Mrs. Florence Molven, Princeton, N. J.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at a Trenton funeral home. Interment in Greenwood cemetery, Trenton.

Fine Enacts Law Hiking Judges' Pay

Harrisburg, Pa. — All Pennsylvania judges will receive an average $2,000 a year pay increase under a new State law.

The new statute, signed by Gov. John S. Fine over the weekend, will add an estimated $600,000 a year to the cost of salaries for Pennsylvania's judiciary.

With few exceptions, the new law grants most judges a flat $2,000 boost over previous salary levels.

The exceptions are the lower pay-bracket judges — those receiving $11,000 and $12,000 a year. They will receive an extra $3,000.

Included in these exceptions are Judge Fred W. Davis of the Monroe-Pike judicial district and Judge James C. McCready of Carbon, both of whom have been paid $11,000. They will now receive $14,000.

In both of these counties, the judges also take care of the Orphans court business in addition to the Common Pleas court business, while in larger counties special judges are elected to handle this vast amount of work.

Charles Houck Expires At 82

Charles Sylvan Houck, 82, died yesterday at his home in Chambersburg.

Son of the late John C. and Mary Slutter Houck, he served as cashier of the Hawley National Bank, Hawley, until his retirement in 1945. He was a member of the Hawley Presbyterian church.

Services will be at 10 a. m. Wednesday at Chambersburg, with burial rites at 3:30 p. m. the same day at Prospect cemetery, East Stroudsburg. Rev. Frank W. Wingerter will officiate at the burial rites.

Mr. Houck's only survivor is his wife, of Chambersburg.

Birth Announced

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Vail, of Dunellen, N. J., at the Monroe County General hospital, on January 1. The baby, who weighed 8 pounds 2 ounces, has been named Deborah June. The mother is the former Frances Van Vleet, of Marshall's Creek.

Ho-Hum

Well, the Duchess of Windsor has been named the world's best dressed woman for the fifth consecutive year. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt has been chosen as the world's smartest woman for the fourth time.

Many of the also-rans in both contests have been in the running before.

The pickers of the "world's best" seem to be in a rut. It may be suspected that, as in many other elections, the candidates have been hand-picked.

Isn't it possible that some cute stenographer, who makes her own clothes, might be better dressed than the Duchess? Or that a house-wife somewhere, managing to feed and clothe her family on a small budget and keeping her mind alert at the same time, may be as smart as Mrs. Roosevelt?

We think both the Duchess and Mrs. Roosevelt would admit the possibility.

Captain Carlsen-Hero

One uses the word hero cautiously in these cynical times. But no other term is adequate to describe Capt. Kurt Carlsen, who gallantly refuses to leave his ship—a ship battered by gales and lying almost flat on her side in the ferocious troughs of the North Atlantic.

It is a harkening back to the days when valor was never corny, when brave men battled the seas and did not desert their ships.

It is a healthy sign, too, that Captain Carlsen's valor has captured the imagination of people everywhere.

The British have been especially touched by Captain Carlsen's lone vigil, for they are traditionally people of the sea and they recognize the intrepid nature of that vigil.

Over here, we can bask in Captain Carlsen's reflected gallantry because, although he was born in Norway, he is an American from Woodbridge, N. J., and he is making Americans look good.

But in a sense, Captain Carlsen belongs to the world. He is a symbol of the magnificent heights to which an individual can rise in a time of crisis.

The whole human race, as well as Captain Carlsen's employers, can take great comfort and pride in having him aboard.

Hope It Isn't Permanent

When W. Stuart Symington takes on a government job the people who get first attention from him are the taxpayers.

That's the reason Mr. Symington has been a trouble-shooter in the Truman Administration. That's the reason he has been confirmed six times by the Senate—without question and by unanimous votes. That's the reason it's too bad he is leaving the Government.

Mr. Symington doesn't waste time trying to convert or coddle corruptionists. He fires 'em.

When he took over the Reconstruction Finance Corp., after it had been riddled by influence peddlers and favor-givers, Mr. Symington said he wanted the office to "bristle with integrity."

A few employees inclined to take this lightly were convinced by getting dismissed.

Mr. Symington not only demonstrates a belief in giving the taxpayers service. He believes in getting it at the lowest possible cost.

He is one Government official who thinks a dollar ought to buy a dollar's worth of goods or services.

That led to use of the term "Symingtonism" in far-off Singapore by those whose price-gouging Mr. Symington fought—the rubber and tin producers whose "high-as-possible" prices he refused to accept.

There are a lot "isms" around Washington. Most of them we don't need, but the Government could use a lot more of "Symingtonism". Let's hope the vacation Mr. Symington.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A tourist stopped at a gift shoppe in the mountains of Arkansas in search of souvenir postcards to mail back to New York. He selected some shots of gangling hillbillies in front of a dilapidated old cabin, and asked the sprightly, well-turned-out girl who was waiting on him, "How far into the hills would I have to go to find gawks like this?" The girl laughed and admitted, "Mister, a bunch of us young folks dressed up one Sunday and took these pictures not ten blocks from the state capital in Little Rock just to fool suckers like you."

Next Todd tells of a man who was looking across his neighbor's lawn on Christmas Eve and observed, "The Smiths are bringing in a Yule log." "Yule log, my eye," corrected his wife. "That's Smith!" Next also writes that the trouble with most wait-flovers is their stems.

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood - Shooting a movie part way inside the Iron Curtain is a feat recently accomplished by the pretty brunette Swede, Viveca Lindfors, and her director husband, Don Siegel.

It took some alert doing while they filmed "No Time for Flowers" in the International zone of Vienna, partly when Russians had control. Authority over this central sector is rotated monthly among the occupying Americans, British, French, and Russians.

At no time, they were forewarned, could they film the slightest glimpse of a Russian soldier, truck, or building. One day Don was lining up a shot with his finder—a little oblong eyepiece that shows what a camera would catch.

He swung it round toward a Russian building that had a red star on it. "Don't do that!" yelled his assistant, yanking the finder down.

And if they had filmed such forbidden sights? "The Russians would have confiscated our equipment," Don said. "If tourists take a snapshot of a passing Russian truck, the truck stops, soldiers jump off, grab the camera, and off they go."

The Lindfors-Siegel movie is all the more remarkable because, he said, it is openly anti-Communist. In one scene, a Swiss actor named Paul Christian takes a sip of coffee, spits it out, and demands, "What kind of coffee is this?"

"The national kind," Viveca tells him (the story supposedly takes place in Communist-controlled Czechoslovakia).

Christian says: "In America, they wouldn't even serve this to the pigs!"

A number of Viennese actors turned down parts, Don said, because of the script's anti-Communist flavor. Historic sequences show crowds hailing among others, Thomas G. Masaryk, father of the late Czech democracy.

"How we got away with 'Hooray for Masaryk' I don't know," Don said, except Vienna is the only place in the world

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

Sokolsky

Patronage vs. Morality. The President's statement on the reorganization of the Internal Revenue Bureau begins with a remarkable preamble: "After extensive study of the matter with Secretary of the Treasury, I have decided to institute a sweeping reorganization of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. This reorganization is part of a program to prevent improper conduct in the public service, to protect the government from the insidious influence peddlers and favor seekers, and to expose and punish any wrongdoers."

This was given to our country on January 2, 1952. The Hoover commission report on the identical subject, making similar recommendations, was issued on March 5, 1949. The Hoover commission was appointed on July 17, 1947, because there was obvious need for reform. Actually the need goes back decades.

The question then arises: Why was the Hoover commission appointed at all? If one goes into that, it is possible to say that at the moment of appointment, the President sincerely desired an overall reorganization of the executive branch of government.

However, when the reports were out and public enthusiasm evident, only lip service was offered to the reforms.

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington - As you might expect there is quite a stir in Lafayette, Indiana, where the city school system recently dropped a textbook that was under sharp fire for its contents. The textbook is Magruder's "American Government."

The Greater Lafayette Chamber of Commerce sponsored the review and eventual banning of the book in public schools in that city. In a letter from J. G. Murphy, manager of the chamber of commerce, he says that now that some of the smoke of battle has cleared away the majority opinion in the community seems to support the action.

What the parents and teachers, along with a committee from the Lafayette Chamber of Commerce, discovered was that, in their opinion, the textbook is "subtly slanted in praise of socialism" and contains a "disguised attack on the free system of our republic."

Some time ago I raised the question about the fitness of this textbook as a public school document, basing my indecision concerning its worth on a scholarly examination conducted by several history professors. I reached no conclusion on whether it should or should not be taken from school desks, but even so I got quite a bouncing around from various groups who label themselves as protectors of our public schools. So I can only say to the Lafayette parents and chamber of commerce members that they are in for a considerable workout from these same sources.

So far, however, the Lafayette citizens who sponsored the action do not seem to be frightened unduly. In fact they are making public inquiries, asking who put the textbook in this public schools in the first place, and are there any more like it? It's a good question, and I hope they get an answer. I've been asking the same one in Washington about who put the Communists on the public payrolls, but nobody seems to know.

Lafayette is a thriving city, peopled by sound citizens who are the product of their own public schools, and most residents want their children to grow up with the same regard for America that they have. So they examined a textbook. A textbook they are paying for with their taxes, that is being used by the school teachers they employ. I can't question their right to do so. But a lot of people do, including the National Education Association, which reacts with high explosive propaganda whenever somebody questions a school textbook.

Local school administrators in Lafayette were not criticized when the Magruder textbook was dropped. Nobody was castigated, nobody burned at the stake. In fact, not a single textbook was burned, although the chamber of commerce can expect to be accused in left wing and other publications of having done just such a thing.

It takes experts, of course, to examine textbooks and determine if they are written in accord with the facts of American history. That is all most parents can expect, or want. But in this particular volume in use in the Lafayette schools there are a couple of statements, one in the form of a question, that are worth repeating. For instance, the book asks:

"Why is the vice presidential where Americans and Russians get along I think we were so open and above-board about everything that the Russians thought, 'They can't be doing anything'?"

The film avoids depicting Russians as "horrible people with whips," Siegel said. "The only way you can combat Communism is to ridicule it and show how preposterous it is."

He invited Herbert Hoover to assist him and the original legislation creating the commission was of Herbert Hoover's designing. This commission consisted of appointees by the President, the Senate and the House of Representatives. It was strictly non-partisan. It included officials and private citizens. In addition, a large body of distinguished and able Americans, not actually on the commission, were co-opted for task forces. They did the investigating and the preparation of the basic task force reports on which the commission reached its conclusions.

From the very start, Mr. Hoover encountered a measure of opposition and delay among those members who had developed a governmental philosophy supporting the widest expansion of governmental authority and the development of bureaucratic methods. This battle was fought steadily and often the questions at issue were placed before President Truman. It must be said here that the President supported the position of Herbert Hoover most often and seemed to show the keenest interest in the commission's work.

However, when the reports were out and public enthusiasm evident, only lip service was offered to the reforms. A citizens committee was organized under the chairmanship of Robert L. Johnson, president of Temple University, which has devoted itself to a propaganda for the implementation of the Hoover proposals. The effective opposition came not only from the White House and the bureaucracy, but also from members of Congress who favor patronage as a means to retaining their seats.

President Truman says: "It is my intention to make the Bureau of Internal Revenue a blue-ribbon civil service career organization. I intend to make it a service in which all of us can place genuine confidence and have justified pride. I hope that I will have the full support of the Congress and of the public in bringing this about."

It is to be hoped that the President intends to do this. He could have done it long ago. His secretary of the treasury and his attorney general could have done it at any time since they were appointed to office. It is not only within their power, but it is their sworn duty to keep their personnel in order.

This is not a partisan question. Republicans are not more honest than Democrats because they belong to a different party. Actually, three factors are involved:

1. Patronage is a vicious system, utterly untenable by any argument. A public official, particularly a tax collector or a law enforcement officer, should not be beholden to a politician for his office or for continuance in office.

2. The bureaucracy has grown too large and is unmanageable. There are too many offices and bureaus and responsibility has become diffused. Bookkeeping methods are antiquated and clever men can find means for evading checks and protectives. A private business would be bankrupted by the inefficiencies not only tolerated but encouraged in the management of public affairs.

All this is amply established in the Hoover reports.

3. The morals of public conduct reflect the decay of private morals. A shift from patronage to civil service, from Democrats to Republicans, will not suffice unless the people themselves demand and insist upon a moral approach to a public responsibility.

Criticizing "mink coats" is not the answer. For by any law of life, if there are givers, there will be takers. Human frailty can always be found and depended upon. It is up to the people to show their moral indignation at any tolerance of corruption—not only money corruption, but subversion and falsehood as well.

I felt I almost could reach out and touch it. To fly over the endless expanse of the Atlantic is still at least on a par with getting an eight to one shot home by a half length at the wire. The lights of Paris from the air at twilight; the Thames river winding dully below me as the big Strato-cruiser lazily and clumsily circled over London; the first sight of the incredible green shores of Ireland; the wild winds of Iceland and the sea of antiquity below when over Rome—I remember them all, I hope to repeat some of them and I guess I'll donate my customary bucket of sweat just to do so.

He would prefer something in which there was not too much competition, and it would have to be a service or product that is readily saleable.

"The tape business," I said without a moment's hesitation. He thought for a minute, and then he shook his head.

"No, I don't think that would do," he said. "There is lots of competition in the tape business. There is bicycle tape, adhesive tape, Scotch tape, freezer tape, ticker tape. And every one of those tapes is made by several manufacturers."

"Oh, that isn't what I mean," I replied. "It's the RED TAPE business in which I think the opportunities are unlimited. And I can't think of a single firm that is manufacturing it."

"Just imagine the business you could do if you got the Government in Washington alone to place its orders with you!"

Then I gave him just ONE instance in which thousands of yards of red tape must have been required.

It is the case of Mrs. Kenneth Slater, a former Army nurse, of Chateaugay, N. Y.

Last October Mrs. Slater's husband, an Army captain, was slain by robbers in Germany.

A few weeks before the Slaters had adopted a little German girl, Victoria Louise, who is now a year old.

Mrs. Slater had returned to the United States, but had left the office one of the worst features of our government?

I didn't know it was. And it seems that a textbook used in public schools might go into some detail as to why the conclusion is reached.

Another statement in the textbook criticized by the Lafayette parents, is:

"The indirect method of electing the President of the United States is no longer of value."

If nothing else the author of the textbook appears slightly opinionated concerning these two subjects, at least. More people in the U. S. are free to vote for a president than anywhere else in the world that I can think of.

However, we always seem to get someone elected president, even if we don't like them after they get in the White House. So it's a little rough on junior and his sister to tell them in a textbook—anybody's—that the way we hold our elections is valueless.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

AN OLD PAL PASSES. The penny postcard now is gone—A deed of infamy: They shot it down in Washington. Without a "Pardon me!"... Backbone of correspondence and A family friend so old In keeping touch the simple way, It now lies stark and cold.

II. The words "Wish you were here" now join Inflation's victims wide With "Having lovely time down here."

III. And "Had a swim at high tide; Now does 'Arrived okay' take on An economic air. For pompous experts to discuss With charts quite hard to bear.

IV. "Send money" joins with food and drink In costliness we dread. And "Don't forget to air the cat" Can put us in the red: "Please send your booklet," and the words "Rush sample right away." Runs into money as our life Gets tougher day by day.

Each slogan contest feels the blow; No longer will the spell Of "Simply mail a postal card" Bring answers in pell-mell; Our way of life now drabber is; It makes this old head buzz As everything becomes just twice As costly as it was.

Sherman's March To 1952. Many people who took in the New Year celebration by video must still be wondering if what they watched was the entrance of 1952 or of Sherman Billingsley. Fun is fun, glamour is glamour and celebrities are celebrities. We were no surprises as we watched the video welcome to 1952 and we had moments when we wished we were there. But never before through the ages was the "Great Hour of the Twelve-month" in a period of grave crisis presented to millions as a night-club special number. It left us a little queasy. It was as if Mr. Billingsley had bought the video rights to New Year's Eve. The full hour from 11:30 to 12:30 was his and it was certainly an all-out presentation.

Mr. Billingsley, moving from table to table, conducted the weirdest quiz program in recorded history.

"Tell me, who was the prettiest girl in the world in 1951?"... "Listen, what I want to know from you is what was the most fun you had last year?"... Look can you tell me the name of the three nicest people in all 1951 and who will make it next year?"... "Looking back over the past year what would you rather do or not?"... Once a famous dignified Democratic leader was embraced by the host and he seemed to sense a fear he would be asked, "Of all the musical shows you have been in how are things in Europe and would you want to live your life over again or else?" It left us feeling that the Alice in Wonderland classic might turn out to be a reliable chronicle of American history.

In moments like this, Jimmy, I keep getting the idea I should have been one of the Andrews Sisters. Helen Traubel, famous opera star on the Durante program... Russia now, says it invented the auto away back in 1752... Yeah, it had the engine in the rear, the car ran upside down and the bumpers were equipped with quick detachable razor blades... In the old days a candidate for the Presidency threw his hat into the ring... Today he tosses it on to the outside aerial... It is now announced that electricity can be produced from the atom, which means it will one day run the icebox, the dishwasher, the electric toaster, etc... This will ultimately bring a charge from Moscow that our refrigerator is engaged in a plot against the Communist world...

How great if all the atom bombs Which all the world fears most Should wind up making ice-cubes and Just keeping us in toasts!

The behavior of Russia and her satellites indicates the adoption of a "United Affront."

PERISHABLE. Tell me not the Yuletide spirit Lingers in the heart of man -- For today I saw a tree deep In an alleyway ashen.

A young fellow recently out of college asked me to suggest some business he could start with not too much capital.

He would prefer something in which there was not too much competition, and it would have to be a service or product that is readily saleable.

If nothing else the author of the textbook appears slightly opinionated concerning these two subjects, at least. More people in the U. S. are free to vote for a president than anywhere else in the world that I can think of.

However, we always seem to get someone elected president, even if we don't like them after they get in the White House. So it's a little rough on junior and his sister to tell them in a textbook—anybody's—that the way we hold our elections is valueless.

I felt I almost could reach out and touch it. To fly over the endless expanse of the Atlantic is still at least on a par with getting an eight to one shot home by a half length at the wire. The lights of Paris from the air at twilight; the Thames river winding dully below me as the big Strato-cruiser lazily and clumsily circled over London; the first sight of the incredible green shores of Ireland; the wild winds of Iceland and the sea of antiquity below when over Rome—I remember them all, I hope to repeat some of them and I guess I'll donate my customary bucket of sweat just to do so.

He would prefer something in which there was not too much competition, and it would have to be a service or product that is readily saleable.

"The tape business," I said without a moment's hesitation. He thought for a minute, and then he shook his head.

"No, I don't think that would do," he said. "There is lots of competition in the tape business. There is bicycle tape, adhesive tape, Scotch tape, freezer tape, ticker tape. And every one of those tapes is made by several manufacturers."

"Oh, that isn't what I mean," I replied. "It's the RED TAPE business in which I think the opportunities are unlimited. And I can't think of a single firm that is manufacturing it."

"Just imagine the business you could do if you got the Government in Washington alone to place its orders with you!"

Then I gave him just ONE instance in which thousands of yards of red tape must have been required.

It is the case of Mrs. Kenneth Slater, a former Army nurse, of Chateaugay, N. Y.

Last October Mrs. Slater's husband, an Army captain, was slain by robbers in Germany.

A few weeks before the Slaters had adopted a little German girl, Victoria Louise, who is now a year old.

Miss Diane Van Buskirk

Van Buskirk-Razny Troth Announced

Newfoundland—Mr. and Mrs. Russell Van Buskirk, Panther, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Diane, to Mr. Frank Razny, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Razny, also of Panther.

Miss Van Buskirk is a graduate of the Greene-Dreher High school class of 1951, and is employed at the Inn, Buck Hill Falls. Mr. Razny, also a graduate of the local high school, class of 1950, is engaged in dairy farming.

No date has been set for the wedding.

Babies Baptized Sunday At Grace Church

Cheryl Lee Lashak, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lashak of 105 Crystal Street, East Stroudsburg; and Anne Louise Thompson, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Thompson of 51 Ransberry Ave., East Stroudsburg, were received into the baptized membership of Grace Evangelical, Lutheran church on Sunday afternoon by the sacrament of Holy Baptism.

The baptisms were administered at the baptismal font before the candle-lit altar which was graced with bouquets of white snapdragons in loving memory of Ira Kintner by his wife, Mrs. Fannie Kintner, and son, Clifford. Pastor Wunder, Grace church minister, administered the sacrament.

Serving as sponsors for Cheryl Lee Lashak were her parents and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford R. Kintner who are Cheryl's maternal uncle and aunt respectively. Also witnessing the baptism of Cheryl Lee were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Monsell, maternal grandparents; Mr. and Mrs. Ignatz Lashak of Lakewood, Pa., paternal grandparents; Thomas and David Kintner, cousins; Mrs. Eleanor Wunder and daughter, Amy Carol; and Mrs. Fannie Kintner.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Thompson served as sponsors for their daughter, Anne Louise. Anne Louise was born at the General Hospital on June 21, 1951 at 10:20 p.m. Cheryl Lee Lashak was born at the General Hospital on Tuesday, November 6, 1951 at 9:47 a.m.

Following the baptisms the parents, sponsors and those witnessing the baptismal rites received Holy Communion at the altar.

Candlelight Installation At Shawnee

Shawnee—The auxiliary of the Shawnee Presbyterian church met last Wednesday night at the parish house when the new officers were installed in candlelight devotion. Mrs. Robert Reed inducted the new officers:

Mrs. Roke Fuller, president; Mrs. Omar Michaels Jr., vice president; Mrs. Paul Crawn, secretary; Mrs. Arthur Mosteller, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Willard Stettler, treasurer; and Mrs. Robert Bradburn, program chairman.

Mrs. Bradburn in turn installed the secretaries of standing committees whose appointment was announced previously. During the devotion, Mrs. Irvin Walter read the Scripture and Mrs. Abraham Kulp sang a solo.

During the business meeting, the auxiliary decided to join with the auxiliary of the Middle Smithfield Presbyterian church in providing for a minister's family. As the first step in that project, a box will be placed at the church to receive warm clothing for men, women and children.

The program committee will meet with Mrs. Robert Bradburn on Tuesday night at the manse. The next auxiliary meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Minard Flor, on February 6, when a white elephant sale will be held after the program.

Mrs. Clyde Heller and Mrs. Paul Crawn were hostesses at the social time which followed the meeting.

Bushkill Garden Club Meets Thursday

Bushkill—The Bushkill Garden club will hold its regular meeting on Thursday, January 10 at 2:30 at the fire hall.

Mrs. Edwin Bartram will speak on birds.

The new officers to take over club duties are Mrs. B. H. Bensley, president; Mrs. Edwin Bartram, vice president; Mrs. C. N. Guillot, secretary and Mrs. Horton Stettler, treasurer.

Zion Cong. Tonight

The annual congregational supper and meeting of the Zion Evangelical and Reformed church will be held tonight beginning at 6:30 in the church school dining room.

At that time annual reports will be given, and officers elected for the coming terms.

Eight Children Pay Tribute To Eugene Heller

Eugene Heller, of Prospect St., East Stroudsburg, went to church as usual on Sunday morning and was quite willing to wait for his daughter-in-law, Ruth, after church. It did seem that it was taking her a long time to get ready, though, down in the nursery department.

When he went down to investigate, he discovered why—his eight children had prepared a birthday dinner at the church dining room in celebration of his 75th birthday, and with the 17 grandchildren and 4 great-grandchildren, it made quite a party.

Rev. and Mrs. Harold C. Eaton were also guests at the dinner, which was climaxed with a birthday cake and the presentation of a watch, the gift of all the children.

Mr. Heller formerly lived on Franklin Hill as a farmer, but about 20 years ago established his store on Normal Hill where generations of laboratory school children have spent their pennies. He and his wife, now deceased, had 9 children, of whom eight are still living.

D. Of A. Lodge Installs Its New Officers

New officers of the Daughters of America were installed at the lodge session on Friday night, with Mrs. Ida M. Strunk as the new counselor.

District Deputy Jennie Meixell was the installing officer and in addition to Mrs. Strunk, the officers include:

Vice counselor, Edith Everitt; associate counselor, Ida Hilliard; vice associate counselor, Mary Van Why; assistant recording secretary, Flossie Young; financial secretary, Arlene Young; conductor, Nellie Millard; warden, Marion Burk.

Inside sentinel, Carrie Nether-ton; outside sentinel, Agnes Smith; trustee for 18 months, Mary Stagerwald; for 12 months, Martha Dennis.

Entertainment committee: Georgia Albertson, Flossie Stiff and Estella Metzgar; refreshment committee: Ida Hilliard, Edith Christman, Martha Bonser, Flora Garis, Emma Dailey, Edith Everitt and Elizabeth Hintz; flower committee: Nellie Millard, Martha Janusz, East Stroudsburg; Edith Everitt and Ida Hilliard, Stroudsburg.

The retiring officers, Agnes Smith and Clara Heller, were both presented with jewels. Jennie Meixell, who has served as publicity chairman for many years, resigned and Mrs. Ida M. Strunk will perform her duties.

Announcement was made of a district meeting to be held January 15 in New Tripoli, and one member was accepted to be initiated at the next meeting, January 18.

Following the meeting a social was held with games and refreshments provided by the new counselor, Mrs. Ida M. Strunk.

SPCA Meeting Tuesday Night

The regular meeting of the Monroe County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to animals will be held Tuesday, January 8 at 7 p.m. in the Stroudsburg municipal building. It will follow the executive board meeting called for 7 p.m.

Matters of interest and importance will be decided upon and a full attendance is urged.

Married Couples Tonight

The Married Couples group of Christ Episcopal church will meet tonight in the parish house. Scout Executive William R. Raup will be the speaker, and a social time will follow.

Pocono Aux. Plans Polio Fund Party

Tannersville—The Ladies Auxiliary of the Pocono Township Vol. Fire Co. held its first meeting of the New Year on Thursday night. Mrs. Elsie Besecker presided over the business period, during which many projects were discussed.

It was decided to hold a card party for the general public on Jan. 17, the entire proceeds to be donated to the Infantile Paralysis Fund drive in Monroe County. It is expected everyone in the community will help in this affair, to show their thankfulness for the recovery of neighbors and friends, and to promote the work.

The card party will start at eight o'clock, but at 7:30 promptly there will be a brief business meeting of the Auxiliary members.

Lottie Werkheiser was appointed chairman of the refreshment committee for the card party and anyone wishing to donate sandwiches or cake may call her. Catherine Kabalac is chairman of the prize committee and donations will be welcome.

Elsie Besecker, Emma Dunbar and Mrs. Francis Mooney served an attractive salad, rolls and hot beverages. Vera Walters won the good of the order prize.

Reish Homes Scenes Of Holiday Parties

Poplar-Cherry Valley—Both the homes of Orien Reish and his son, Donald were gay with family parties during the past holidays.

On the Sunday before Christmas, three cousins, Susan Brewer, George Couch and Olive Reish, whose birthdays come very close together, celebrated them at a party at the Donald Reish home. Those there to wish them well were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Brewer and Phillip, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Couch and children, William, and Ellen, of Milton, Delaware; Miss Viola Gray of Delaware, New Jersey; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Dennis, Donald Reish and sons, Bruce and Lawrence.

A week later the home was again open to the following friends and relations: Mr. and Mrs. Ted Bush and Scotty, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Reish and Buddy and Bryan; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Greene and Lawrence; Mr. and Mrs. Orien Reish and Gary and Joan; and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Treible and Raymond of East Stroudsburg.

Christmas Eve was a really wonderful time when the entire Reish family gathered together at the home of their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Orien Reish. First a delicious roast duck and ham supper was enjoyed. Then the family gave their gifts to each other and when one realizes the number of children and grandchildren present, one can imagine the amount of gifts—and paper—there was.

The family includes Mr. and Mrs. Orien Reish and their children, Gene, Joan and Gary still at home. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Reish and sons, Bruce and Lawrence; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Reish and sons, Glenn and Bryan; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Reish and children, Sharon, Brenda, and Duane; Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Fenner; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bush and son, Scotty.

One of the pleasantest highlights of the evening was a telephone call from Adam Reish from Center County. He is Orien's father. Eight grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren wished him a Merry Christmas.

Junior Girls Entertained At Pooley's

The Junior girls of the Fifth Street Mission were entertained at a New Year's party held at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Herbert Pooley. A chicken dinner was served and games were played and gifts were exchanged.

Those present were Dorothy Neipert, Ivan Lake, Shirley Garis, Hilda Strach, Sylvia Heller, Genevieve Heller, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Pooley.

Rosary Society Thursday

Tannersville—The first meeting of the Year of the Altar and Rosary Society of Our Lady of Victory church will be held on Thursday evening, Jan. 10, and it is hoped all members will make an extra effort to be present. There are many matters of business to be disposed of. Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Broderick are to be the hostesses.

Swiftwater WSCS Meets At Hamblin Home

Swiftwater—The regular monthly meeting of the WSCS of the Swiftwater Methodist church was held Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. John Hamblin.

Mrs. Edith Smith, president, was in charge of the meeting and read a continuation of the Christmas story. Mrs. Elizabeth Strohl gave an interesting reading entitled "A Diet for Spiritual Fat."

During the meeting it was decided to hold the annual bazaar on August 7, on the church grounds, and a band will be procured to furnish music during the evening.

At the close of the meeting, group singing was enjoyed, after which refreshments were served to the following: Mrs. Edith Smith, Mrs. George Collins, Mrs. Harry Hamblin, Mrs. Willard Weaver, Mrs. Clarence Rinker, Mrs. Francis Widdoss, Miss Audrey Hamblin, Mrs. Willard Carlton, Mrs. Elizabeth Strohl, Miss Nabel Aze, and the hostess Mrs. John Hamblin.

Tentative plans were made to meet in February at the home of Mrs. Alva Rowe, on Woodland Road.

Helen Tittle Is Bride Of Wm. Bonser

Saylorsburg—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tittle, of Saylorsburg, RD 1, announce the marriage of their daughter, Helen Frances, to William E. Bonser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bonser, also of Saylorsburg.

The double ring ceremony was performed on December 21, at Elkton, Md. by Rev. Percy K. Lambert. The bride wore a white satin gown with a skirt covered with nylon tulle, a fitted bodice cap sleeves and long matching mitts.

Her veil of illusion net fell from a crown of seed pearls in a floral design and she carried a colonial bouquet of white carnations and pink sweet peas.

The bride is employed by the Imperial Shirt Co., West Bangor, and Mr. Bonser is employed by R. C. Cramer. They both attended Chestnut Hill High school.

Mr. and Mrs. Bonser will make their home temporarily with the bridegroom's parents until they move into their furnished apartment.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Don't know why there's something so amusing about bird-watching as a hobby—even when it's your own. There's something about the names, maybe, that sounds irresistibly funny—logger-head shrike, long-billed curlew, worm-eating warbler and Bohemian waxing, for instance.

Sort of makes you long to invent birds of your own like ill-tempered shrews, or early dusk curfews, or bug-biting bitterns, or Bohemian sauses.

All of which is leading up to our awakening on Saturday morning by the children's excited calls to "Come see the funny juncos with top-knots."

We came all right, bird book yawns and all—and, sure enough, there was a whole flock of tufted titmouses, (or should that be tufted titmice) fighting over the suet. Or so the book assured us. By the time we got the suet out of our eyes we could even see the chestnut-under-the-wings, that is supposed to be a confirming mark.

Oh, well, it's high time we were up anyway. But I think I'll be much fonder of dusk-feeding birds than of those dawn-crackers we seem to specialize in.

Miss Hanna Engaged To Pfc. Dyson

Mrs. Lydia Hanna, of 471 North Courtland St., East Stroudsburg, announces the engagement of her daughter, Barbara Jane Hanna, to Pfc. Charles Dyson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Dyson, of Pocono Pines.

Miss Hanna was graduated from Tobyhanna Township High school in the class of 1949 and is employed at the Stroudsburg Garment Co.

Pfc. Dyson was graduated from the same school in 1950, and is now stationed at Keesler Air Force Base, Miss.

No date had been set for the wedding.

Life was perfect . . . winter weather that could sometimes double for spring, not enough ice to worry about, and an interesting job to fill each day. And then it happened! Edna Brockman, head of the Wyckoff Travel Bureau, began to talk about Bermuda, Nassau, Panama, and the Mediterranean. She described Easter lilies blooming by the thousand on a gem-like tropical island . . . carnival time in Rio . . . and glamorous cruises to the Land of the Midnight Sun.

As a result it seems to me that the snow isn't quite as beautiful as it had been. In fact, it's about as dreary looking as anything seen around these parts in ages. There's neither enough of it to look good or to give pleasure to sports lovers. As for the ice . . . well, even one little sliver can throw you, can't it? And maybe a rest would be nice!

The only trouble is, most of us are foolishly content to go cruising in our imagination. It's fun . . . and it's inexpensive, goodness knows. But in the end it isn't very satisfactory. It isn't particularly sensible either, when one can really see the world, enjoy its wonders, and relax for almost any sum, either large or small, one feels able to invest. Life's too short for us to be wasting dreams that should be coming true!

I hope that all of you heard Edna on Friday morning's Wyckoff Shopper broadcast, (make listening a daily custom, won't you?) but for those who did not, let's quote just a few prices—seven days in Bermuda by air can cost as little as $99. For those preferring a cruise aboard the Queen of Bermuda or the Ocean Monarch, the cost would be as little as $145. And to continue on to Nassau, the rate would be $175. The wonderful part about it is that one can throw all worries to the wind—take an active part in shipboard activities or simply rest; dress to the teeth or relax in simple every-day attire. What a marvelous way to wash all your troubles out of your hair, and dust the cobwebs out of your mind.

Make mine Bermuda! That's something to look forward to and save for. At the moment, however, I'll have to settle for a juicy slice of it . . . on a hamburger!

Howdy Folks! Have You a Family Doctor?

Why not also a family photographer, who is familiar with your needs and who will take a personal interest in you and your family? It's a lot easier for both the subject and the photographer when you know each other. We believe friendliness and courtesy are just as important in our business as good portraits. $350,000 Made Available For River Study

Harrisburg, (AP)—A new State law authorizes a $350,000 study of ways and means of best utilizing the Delaware river and its water resources.

The money will be turned over to the State Forests and Waters commission which will undertake the project.

The new act, signed over the weekend by Gov. John S. Fine, gives the department broad powers to investigate all means of controlling and improving conditions on the important eastern Pennsylvania waterway.

The department is also empowered under the act to join with the Incodel, a four-state compact, in pursuing ways to utilize the Delaware. The compact is between Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Delaware.

The commission, better known as the Greenfield commission since it is headed by the Alfred Greenfield, prominent Philadelphia businessman, was appointed several months ago when Pennsylvania decided to postpone joining with New York, New Jersey and Delaware under a four-state Delaware River Development pact.

Obviously, the commission has been without effect up to this time because of lack of funds to pursue the investigation, especially into feasibility of the Incodel proposition to have the four states erect a series of impounding dams on the river from Bushkill, Pa., to Hancock, N. Y.

This summer's meeting of Incodel resulted in a threat by New York State to proceed with a case before the U. S. Supreme Court in an attempt to have its right to take more water from the Delaware expanded.

Pennsylvania was criticized for its delay in accepting the Incodel proposal.

Polio Care Costly But National Foundation Gladly Bears Expenses So That Its Victims May Walk Again

(This is the last of four stories on Mary Hendricks. The series is being published to acquaint the public with activities of the National Polio foundation, whose March of Dimes campaign is now in progress.)

A year ago today a brown-haired man bought a cheeseburger in a diner at Tannersville.

On the counter was a small container bearing a picture of a boy on crutches. When the man got his change he dropped a dime into it and walked out.

He had just paid one eighty-two-thousandths of the medical bill for a girl he never met.

The girl was Mary Hendricks of East Stroudsburg, who contracted bulbar poliomyelitis in 1950.

All over the county similar small acts of almost unconsidered but significant generosity were taking place.

The small acts added up to a large fact: Mary Hendricks and her fellow polio sufferers in America were permitted to live and even better—keep moving toward new self-sufficiency.

Was the Mary Hendricks battle cheap or expensive to her community? No one has set a cash value on human lives.

So far it has cost $8,255.46. That is considerably more than a year's salary or wages for most Americans. But it takes more than willpower and determination on the part of the patient to defeat polio.

It takes money—enough to pay for electronic machines delicate enough to measure the force of a heart beat, the depth of a brain wave; enough to pay for the 24-hour-a-day nursing care necessary in the first stage of the disease; enough to pay the daily needs of food, lodging; enough to pay for the services of physicians and surgeons, physiotherapists, ambulances.

The treatment of Mary Hendricks offers a typical case history of how and for what money is spent on a badly-hit victim of polio.

The Monroe county branch of the National Polio foundation received its first bill for Mary Hendricks dated Aug. 14, 1950; for the ambulance which took her from East Stroudsburg to St. Luke's hospital in Bethlehem, $32.50.

And at St. Luke's—a tracheotomy (throat operation so she could breathe), $50; electro-cardiogram, $10; basal metabolism rate test, $5; oxygen, $43; X-ray, $40; laboratory work, $24.25; drugs, $370.80; nurse's board, $128 physiotherapy, $817; telephone, 31c; supplies, $24.70; special duty nurses, salary, $1,194; room and board for Mary, $2,884; physical medicine, $299; services of a Bethlehem specialist, $150.

Expenses at St. Luke's, from Aug. 14, 1950, to May 7, 1951, totaled $6,262.56.

The balance, paid in connection with her stay at Warm Springs National Polio foundation, until she came home last month, included: room and board (with treatment, services of specialists, and nursing care included), $1,950; transportation, $32.13; ambulance, $25; taxi, $15; corsets, $40; braces, $236.

Some $410 of the total expense was paid for by Mary's hospitalization insurance. The rest came from the donations of county residents.

Walter E. Schlough, East Stroudsburg, president of the Monroe county branch of the national foundation, said he hopes and expects that the county will "pay for its own."

The county branch has come within $2,000 of doing it. Because of the deficit, the national chapter sent $1,000 to apply toward unpaid bills.

Schlough hopes that money will be repaid.

Half of the money collected in the current fund drive will be sent to the national foundation. The other half will remain in the county.

Schlough explains it this way: "With only one or two cases in a year, we can probably pay our own bills for our people. But what if there should be three—four—or five bad cases?

"If there were an epidemic and Monroe county ran up $100,000 or more in medical expenses for polio—the national would step in and send us the money. The bills are guaranteed."

"That's why the national chapter has to keep a reserve—so it can shoot the money out to areas that are hard-hit."

The trouble is, Schlough wryly pointed out, that the national foundation itself is going broke because of the rise in the number of polio cases throughout the nation.

The Daily Record has told something of Mary Hendricks but she is not the county's only polio victim. There are other names on the roster too, some attacked by a virulent form of the disease, others by milder forms—Charles Tallada, Linda Layton, Thomas Toth, Bonnie Boushell, Sam Miah, Carol Munch, Gus Levanduski...

During the year there may be more, for the incidence of polio is rising annually and there is no way to lock the door against the disease.

Money contributed by county residents to the present fund drive, however, will help to finance the search for polio's roots and find a means of exorcising one of the nation's worst devils.

Harry Eppley Wins Promotion In U. S. Navy

Harry G. Eppley, eldest son of William Eppley, formerly of East Stroudsburg and now a resident of Chino, Calif., has been promoted to the rank of M.M. chief in the U. S. Navy.

Eppley is now serving on board the Curtiss, a seaplane tender. He has just completed six months of advanced machine shop training at San Diego, Calif.

He and his wife, Phyllis, now have two children—a three-year-old daughter, Carlyn and a three-month-old son, Harry Jr.

His mailing address is Harry G. Eppley, M.M.C., USS Curtiss, A.V. 4, c/o Postmaster, San Francisco, California.

Another Eppley son, Thomas, is now stationed with the Marines in Hawaii. His address is Cpl. Thomas C. Eppley, 1126920, Guard Plt. Service Co., H. & S. Bn., FMF Pac., c/o P.O. San Francisco, Calif. Both men would enjoy hearing from their old friends in this area.

San Marino, a country with an area of only 38 square miles, is situated in the Apennine Mts. in the heart of Italy.

Forty-nine per cent of all fatal accidents in the U. S. in 1949 involved persons in the 25-44 age group.

Will these be 1952's biggest stories?

You don't know now. But you do know that when they break, right that minute, you'll want your newspaper.

Where else can you get the whole story so fast? So close to the event—so full of fact, detail and color... so quick with answers to "what led up to it?" and "what do they say about it?" and "where do we go from here?"

There's some story nearly every day that hits you like that. So you want your newspaper as you want food and air.

You share that basic, essential hunger with everybody else. Your own suspense may be tied to the banner headlines... somebody else's may hang on a special in the white sales. But sometime each day everybody wants to see the newspaper. It's one thing people won't do without.

• Why do advertisers spend more of their money in newspapers than in any other form of advertising?

Simply because everybody reads the newspaper every day—for its advertising as well as for fun or for news.

So—if you're selling something that's advertised, why should it be advertised to fractions of the people?

Radio and TV programs reach only fractions of anybody's market. Each one appeals to only a special audience. And even the people interested can't all listen.

Magazines reach only fractions of a market. For each one appeals to some people—not to others.

The newspaper talks to everybody in town. It's created fresh every day to appeal to everybody. Just as you read the paper now, all your customers and prospects read the paper too—at the times they choose, for as long as they choose!

Only the newspaper is first with the most news... first with the most people... first with the most advertisers!

What medical discovery will be news in '52? Will another "incurable" disease be conquered?

Will the war end in Korea? Do the Reds want peace, a show-down, or a stalemate? What's their next move... and where?

The World Series—will the Giants need another miracle to get in? Will this be the year to down the mighty Yanks?

The newspaper is always "first with the most"

Worthington Company Develops New Method Of Grass Cutting

Announcement was made yesterday by H. G. Sanborn, general manager of the Worthington Mower Co., Stroudsburg, of a "revolutionary new development in the field of mechanical grass cutting."

The announcement was made simultaneously with the dispatch from the Stroudsburg offices of the company of a special grass-cutting demonstration unit. The unit will visit Air Force bases throughout the south and southwestern portions of the nation during the next two months.

Developed under the supervision of Worthington Chief Engineer Ralph Speiser, the new unit has already been tested by officials at Eglin Air base, Fort Walton, Fla.

The unit consists of triple-rotary discs which whirl from central spokes, each operating from the power of its own individual motor. The use of separate motors for the cutters permits the operator to maintain complete control over all sections of the 17-foot, 4-inch swath being cut while the unit is in operation.

Elimination of the grass-cutting unit's dependability upon tractor or vehicle motion is one of the greatest advances made in the field, company officials maintain.

With the new unit, one man operating one tractor (with the three rotary cutters attached) is able to do work which formerly required the services of three men operating the same number of tractors.

At present the Worthington company intends to concentrate primarily upon the military in its demonstrations. This concentration is due to the high number of air fields throughout the country which have been recently reclaimed for future use. Most of the fields have been neglected during the years since World War II.

Following sales of the rotary triple-mower to air bases and potential production for the military, Worthington, which now supplies approximately 90 per cent of all gang-mowers to the U. S. Army, Navy and Marine Corps, will branch out into the field of "pasture mowers" for use on large ranches and farms.

Accompanying the present demonstration unit on its first stops at Albany, Ga., Marine Corps Supply depot and Pensacola, Fla., will be G. P. Carson, sales engineer of the company.

H. J. Pine Jr., sales manager for Worthington is slated to join the unit for several demonstration stops at Air Force bases in Texas.

Roads North Of Parallel 38 As Familiar To Nelson Smith As Route 611 To Tannersville

By Sgt. Don Robbins Jr.,
RD 3, East Stroudsburg, Pa.

With the Third Inf. Div. in Korea—There are roads north of the 38th Parallel in Korea which are as familiar to Pvt. Nelson Smith as Route 611 between Stroudsburg and his home town, Tannersville, Pa.

Day and night, Pvt. Smith, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Smith live near Tannersville, drives his two and one-half ton truck over the twisting, un-surfaced roads that link units within the division to one another and to supporting groups located in the rear areas.

Smith, who was graduated from Pocono Township High school, is a driver with the Third Quartermaster Company, dubbed the "Providers." The QM company "provides" the Third Division with all its supplies including food, clothing and ammunition.

The truck platoons transport the vital material to every segment with in the division from headquarters to the front-line companies. When troops must be moved, the "Provider" drivers are the men who do the job.

Prior to entering the Army in February 1951, Pvt. Smith had his own trucking business and intends to return to that work when he gets out of the service.

He took basic-training at Fort Devens, Massachusetts, and was a driver for a quartermaster unit at Devens for four months. He was assigned to his present job with the Third Division the early part of October 1951.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Grief struck the local basketball front on two different occasions Friday night, for the first time this year. Both Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg went down to defeats, a feat that hadn't occurred until last week during the youthful 1951-1952 rape campaign. Stroudsburg had won its first four outings, while East Stroudsburg had split a pair of starts. However, the recent setbacks are history now and both clubs will be called upon to scrape themselves off the floor and fight back if they are to be in the title picture at any time this year.

Everyone has been watching Catawqua this season, as the Rough Riders are considered the team to beat in the Lehigh Valley league. However, Whitehall moved into the championship picture over the holidays, only to find Palmerton, the team that marched off with all the marbles last year, still the club to dislodge from the top spot in the standings. The Blue Bombers took the measure of Stroudsburg, 76-67, despite a brilliant showing by likeable Gene Caski, as the senior center came up with a total of 31 points.

It's string along with the experts who pick Catawqua, Whitehall and Palmerton to fight it out for the title, but I'll go a step further and name Stroudsburg and Lehigh as the teams that are destined to decide the final outcome of the race for the flag. By this I don't mean the Mountaineers and Indians will battle for the crown, but they each will score at least one upset and in this manner have a very important bearing on the final outcome of the drive to the finish line. Lehigh, who lost by only three points last Friday, will be especially tough on its very irregular home court.

There has been much written in recent years about murderous football and basketball schedules throughout the land, but there haven't been any that appear tougher than the string of games facing the East Stroudsburg High cagers in the near future. Immediately following the Christmas vacation the Cavaliers are faced with Parkland, who won last Friday, 77-37, Wilson Borough, who recently defeated Parkland, and Coplay, who took the measure of Wilson Borough last Friday, 65-41. If this weren't enough to drive Coach Dick Forster into a less exasperating profession, there is a postponed game with undefeated Hellertown to be made up by the Cavaliers in the very near future.

Although the Cavaliers fell before Parkland by a margin of 40 points, the purple and white color bearers held a 16-8 advantage at the end of the first stanza. The odd part about the 16 markers was the fact that 14 of them were credited to lanky Ray Steele, who was then held to a single field goal the remainder of the distance. Basketball is a peculiar game, in that defeated teams bounce back quicker than in any other sport. Here's hoping the local clubs have plenty of that victory bounce as they both hit the road once again tomorrow night.

Del Davis, assistant football coach at East Stroudsburg High, recalled on Saturday the occasion on which he struck out four times on the Pocono High school diamond, while playing for Harrison Park against the Tannersville town team. This was before the field received its face lifting in recent years. Davis caught Tommy Hughes, who went on to pitch for the Philadelphia Phillies and Cincinnati Reds, that day. Del himself went on to play in the New York Yankees' farm system, before a war injury halted his diamond career.

Bob Staph, Daily Record correspondent in the Newfoundland area, has nicknamed the Greene-Dreher-Sterling High school basketball team the "Stags," in an effort to do away with the unwieldy official name. This writer will be only one of many very happy to find a way to refer to the cage machine without using its full official title. Speaking of the Greene-Dreher five recalls the shock of hearing that the charges of Coach Henry "Hank" Arneberg had taken it on the chin against Lake Township. According to the early season form it just wasn't supposed to happen.

Several minor changes have been made in the prize list of the third annual Monroe County Singles and Doubles Handicap Bowling Tournament, completed recently. Although the actual prize winners changed were in the minor listings, Joe Hodgson, who won the singles and all-events titles and shared in the doubles crown, had his total score reduced when an error of 20 pins was found in the final listing. However, Hodgson still had more than enough of a lead to retain his top billing in all departments. Another prize list is scheduled to be released in the near future.

Hal Contini, who led the Lebanon Chix to second and first place in the two years the club was a member of the now defunct North Atlantic league, is rumored in line to pilot the Hamilton, Ont., farm of the St. Louis Cardinals in the class "C" Canadian-American league next season. The scrappy Contini, a shortstop, wasn't active in professional baseball circles last year.

Kroll Sets Third Round Pace In Los Angeles Open Action

Honolulu, (AP)—College All-Stars from the mainland passed and ran almost at will yesterday to defeat the pro-bolstered Hawaii All-Stars, 41 to 40 in a Hula Bowl football game before a shirt-sleeve crowd of 25,000.

Outstanding Ohio State's Vic Janowicz passed to Johnny Karras of Illinois and Stanford's Bill McColl for four touchdowns, his receivers catching two apiece. Washington's Hugh McElheny and Wisconsin's Gene Felker scored the two other touchdowns on ground plays.

Janowicz, the outstanding back of the game, converted three times McElheny once and Loyola's Don Klosterman once.

Upsets Mark Wayne County Conference Action

Palmerton Back On Top Of Lehigh Valley

By Ben French

Harrisburg, (AP)—Defending champions had rough going as Pennsylvania's schoolboy basketball teams opened the 1952 conference season over the weekend.

Highlighting the initial action was state champion Allentown's 61-53 loss to Bethlehem in the East Penn Conference. The Canaries romped to the 1951 class "A" PIAA championship but lost all but one of their starters in graduation.

Bethlehem had been rated as the pre-season favorite in the strong six-team league while Allentown had a 60-58 loss to Norristown in five exhibition games. The Canaries' next test is tomorrow against Kutztown, the class "B" state titlist.

Farrell, the western champion and runnerup to Allentown, was able to keep its unbeaten record unblemished after winning a 61-57 nod over New Castle in a WPIAL opener. The Steelers should have an easier time tomorrow night against Elwood City.

Chief among the upsets recorded was Meadville's 52-34 conquest of highly-rated Corry in section two of District Ten. Meadville, the defending district champion, had a poor exhibition record while Corry had showed much strength.

Not Form Two non-league games also turned in surprising results. Bradford, the District Nine favorite, upset highly-regarded Erie Tech of District Ten, 70-64. Johnstown, the District Six titlist, downed previously impressive Altoona, 58-46.

Other WPIAL sectional champions which opened strong included Duquesne, Ford City, Washington, Uniontown, Rankin, and New Brighton.

Central Penn winners were Harrisburg, John Harris, defending champion Lebanon, York and Reading. In addition to Bethlehem in the East Penn Circuit, Allentown Catholic and Easton were winners.

Catesville and Pottstown head the Ches-Mont league after impressive victories while Palmerton is back on top of the Lehigh Valley loop. Defending champion Lehigh Valley opened with a 53-39 triumph over Wilkes-Barre GAI in the Wyoming Valley league. Athens, Sayre and Canton were the victors in the Roosevelt Trail league.

Bloomsburg, last year's Susquehanna league kingly, bowed to Milton, 60-43, while Danville and Sunbury came through with easy wins. Chambersburg had trouble in getting by Hershey, 60-58. In the South Penn. Defending titlist Lewisport bowed to Tyrone, 42-40. In the Mountain league.

Swoyersville, runnerup to Allentown in the east last year, opens defense of the North league title tomorrow night at Sugar Notch. Mahanoy City opens its Black Diamond loop campaign by playing host to Lansford.

Suggs Triumphs At Jacksonville

Jacksonville, Fla., (AP) Louise Suggs battled a strong, chill wind in championship style to win the 54-hole Jacksonville Women's Open Golf Tournament yesterday. The 118-pound sweet swinger from Carrollton, Ga., shot 79, three over par, on her final round for 227.

Large Edge Her one under par score for the 54 holes was seven strokes better than second-place Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex., veteran, who wound up with 82 for 234.

It was the first tournament victory for the steady little Miss Suggs in more than a year except for one last fall in her home town of Carrollton. Her prize was $750.

Biddy Basketball Tilts

Two Biddy Basketball League games are on tap today at the Monroe County YMCA. The Colonial Diner and Clemens' Service Station clash at 4 p. m., while Wyckoff-Sears and Koren's Roofers are listed for action at 4:40.

Officials Gather Tonight

A meeting of the Stroudsburg Chapter of PIAA Basketball Officials will take place at the Monroe County YMCA tonight, it was announced by Jack Kist, president of the group. The meeting is scheduled to get underway at 7:30.

NCAA Opens Major Convention Session Today

Cincinnati (AP)—Early arrivals began straggling in yesterday for what generally is regarded as one of the most important conventions in the 46-year history of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Problems of televising of football games; over-emphasis of athletics, particularly football; the sports gambling scandals and the future of post-season bowl games are a few of the matters expected to come before the NCAA members when they get down to the weighty part of their convention Thursday.

The preliminary sessions will start today, however, among vari-

Two ESSTC Soccer Stars Gain Honors

Howard DeNike, soccer coach at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, announced last night that two members of his 1951 contingent that won five, lost one and tied a single game, had been chosen to be nominated for the all-American soccer team from the Pennsylvania-New Jersey area.

The two players were Jay Hollinger, captain of the Warriors, and Hobart Hutchins, one of the top booters to ever come out of Wayne county.

Hollinger was nominated for first team honorable mention at the inside right position, while Hutchins was named for the outside right spot on the second team.

Chairman DeNike was informed of the choices by Don Yonker, soccer coach at Drexel Institute of Technology and chairman of the Pennsylvania-New Jersey all-star soccer area committee.

olozyn SHIR SHIR SH H HHH Hollinger and Hutchins are only two of 55 names from the Pennsylvania-New Jersey area to be singled out for possible mention on the 1951 All-American team. Each soccer area in the United States is conducting a similar pool of coaches and officials and the final all-American team will be selected at a meeting of the Soccer Football Coaches Association of American in New York, on Wednesday, January 16.

DeNike is scheduled to attend the New York meeting as a member of the honor award committee. Included on the list of players named to the Pennsylvania-New Jersey teams were six from West Chester State Teachers College, a team ESSTC tied, 2-2.

Warriors Hold Second Place

Harrisburg (AP)—Millersville, with three straight league victories today leads the official basketball ratings of the Pennsylvania State Teachers College Athletic conference.

Number Two The Lancaster county team holds a ten-point edge over second-place East Stroudsburg, winner of its only game in the new 14-team conference.

Durando To Tangle With Castellani

New York, (AP)—A European heavyweight title defense by champion Hein Ten Hoff of Germany against Karel Sys, veteran Belgium, contender, at Brussels Saturday heads a skimpy boxing program. Ten Hoff won the title from Britain's Jack Gardner September 23.

Ernie Durando, Bayonne, N. J. thumper, faces "Rocky" Castellani of Luzerne, Pa. in a middleweight ten-rounder Friday at Madison Square Garden. Castellani, a winner over Durando almost two years ago after being knocked down for nine in the first round, subs for Paddy Young, who was forced out of a fourth fight with Durando by an eye injury.

The Durando-Castellani bout will be seen on the usual television (NBC) network.

Cesar Brion, Argentine heavyweight, fights Wes Bascom of St. Louis in the Wednesday TV-radio (CBS) show at St. Louis. This will be the first start for Brion since his return from a brief holiday at home.

Lee Sala, Donora, Pa., middleweight who is matched with Eugene Hairston in New York, January 18, makes his first '52 start at Pittsburgh Tuesday against Tony Masciarelli of New York.

Monday At New York (St. Nicholas arena)—Pat Marcune, New York, vs. Tito Valles, New York, feather, 8; at Washington, D. C.—Gene Smith, Washington, vs. Leo Le Brun, New York feather, 10.

Tuesday At Pittsburgh—Lee Sala, Donora, Pa. vs. Tony Masciarelli, New York, middle, 10; at White Plains, N. Y.—Sal Belloise, New York, vs. Angel Martinez, Newark, light heavies, 8, and Charley Williams, Newark, N. J., vs. Herman McCray, Philadelphia, welters, 8.

Wednesday At St. Louis—Wes Bascom, St. Louis, vs. Cesar Brion, Argentine, heavies, 10.

Thursday At New York (Sunnyside)—Ralph "Tiger" Jones, Yonkers, N. Y., vs. Bobby Lloyd, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., middle, 8; at Philadelphia, vs. George Benton, Philadelphia, vs. Holly Mims, Washington, welters, 10.

Friday At New York (Madison Square Garden)—Ernie Durando, Bayonne, N. J., vs. Rocky Castellani, Luzerne, Pa., middle, 10.

Saturday At New York (Ridgewood Grove)—Joe Giambra, Buffalo, N. Y., vs. Mario Moreno, Brooklyn, welters, 8; at Brussels, Hein Ten Hoff, Germany, vs. Karl Sys, Belgium, heavies, 15 (European heavyweight championship); at Philadelphia, Baby Ray Jones, Philadelphia, vs. Arnold Vurry, McKeesport, Pa., lights, 8.

Blue Mountain League To Meet

Roseto—A special meeting of the Blue Mountain Baseball League will take place here at the Capobianco-Martucci American Legion today, at 7:30 p. m.

Election Officers for 1952 will be elected and final plans will be made for the league banquet to be held on Thursday, February 14, at the Tatum House.

Bennie Borgman, former minor league pilot and now basketball coach at Muhlenberg College, is to be guest speaker at the banquet, at which time a film on the 1951 World Series is also expected to be shown.

Evashevski Takes Over At Iowa

Iowa City, Ia., (AP)—Forest Evashevski last night was appointed head football coach at the University of Iowa, succeeding Leonard Raffensperger.

Evashevski, who resigned yesterday as head coach at Washington State College, was given a five-year contract effective Feb. 1. His salary was not disclosed but is presumed to top the $12,000 he received at Pullman, Wash.

Approved The Iowa Board of Education and University President Virgil Hancher approved Evashevski's appointment yesterday after the board in control of athletics recommended him Sunday night.

Athletics Director Paul Brechler said Evashevski told him in a long distance telephone conversation yesterday that he is bringing three members of his present staff with him. Evashevski named line coach Bob Flora, backfield coach Alton Kircher and Dan Staveland.

The athletic board's announcement said Raffensperger, who has another year to go on a three-year contract, will be offered another post on the athletic department staff.

Evashevski had three years left of a five-year contract at Washington State. His 1951 team had a 7-3 record, one of the best in the school's history.

Moscow Moves To Top Spot In Standings

Newfoundland — Eight teams went to the boards in Wayne County Basketball Conference action last Friday night and when the last shower had been taken, Moscow, with a lone win, had taken over the lead and the remainder of the standings had been scrambled almost beyond recognition.

The Trojans, given little chance of seriously threatening anyone this season, scored the most amazing of a trio of upsets in the loop by topping the strong Hawley Buckhorns on the losers' court, 49-45. Moscow built a sizeable lead in the first three periods and was able to triumph despite a 21-10 Hawley edge in the final stanza.

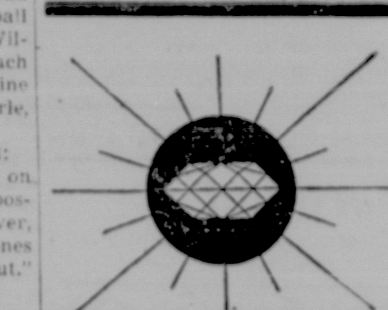

Another Surprise Shocking, too, was Lake Township's surprise of Greene-Dreher-Sterling at Lake Ariel. The Lakers, utilizing a tight zone defense, kept within striking distance of the Stags throughout and put on the clincher in the final minute, 36-34. Honesdale took a 3-0 record and the loop lead to Waymart and came away with its first setback. Billy Houman and the close quarters of the Marketers' court were too much for the Hornets as Jules Prezelski's charges triumphed 48-39.

Only the outcome of the Pleasant Mount-Damascus game ran true to form. The Mounties scored their second win against a single defeat over the Belmen, 44-39.

Pocono Mountains Loop To Form

An organizational meeting of the Pocono Mountains Basketball League will be held at the Monroe County YMCA on Wednesday, it was stated last night by Al Stern, president of the circuit. The meeting is listed for 8 p. m.

Teams The three teams ready to open hostilities, namely Tannersville, Tobyhanna and West End, are urged to have a representative on hand to approve a fourth entry. The circuit will operate as a four-team unit this season.

Pittsburgh, (AP)—Choice of a new head football coach for the University of Pittsburgh lies between five men today. But Lowell "Red" Dawson, backfield coach at Michigan State, seems to be in the number one spot.

Crowe's Crew Rolls Over Circuit Foe

Crowe's Insurance swept four points from Drucker and Young in a Delaware Valley League match rolled at the Pocono Bowling Center on Saturday night. Although the scores were slightly below par for both teams, the Monroe County representative came through when the chips were down.

Frank Laise was the most consistent kiegler in a winning cause, coming through with games of 191, 191 and 192, for a high match total of 574 pins. Dick Andrews, who wound up the match with a 202 game, was high single bowler in a winning cause.

High Honors John Feltman was the big gun in a losing cause, rolling up a game of 201 for high single honors, then accounting for high match laurels with a 552 count.

Next Saturday's scheduled match between Crowe's contingent and Caputo's Service has been postponed until a later date.

Daddio Denies Signing With Grid Cardinals

Meadville, Pa. (AP) — Louis "Bill" Daddio, head football coach at Allegheny College, isn't interested in any professional coaching offers.

The Chicago Herald Tribune had reported that Joe Kuharich had chosen Daddio as assistant coach of the National Football League Chicago Cardinals.

Time

Earlier, the newspaper said Kuharich had been selected as the Cardinals head football coach. Walter Wolfner, club managing director denied the Kuharich report. He said the new coach will be named in Chicago tomorrow.

Said Daddio:

"There is absolutely no foundation to the report I've come to terms with the Cardinals. Kuharich did call me a few days ago and ask if I would be interested in being an assistant if he was named Cardinal coach."

The former University of Pittsburgh football star has coached at Allegheny for the past five years on a year-to-year basis. Daddio and Kuharich were Cardinals teammates ten years ago.

Eagles Fly Over Bangor

Stroodsbury Aerie of Eagles number 1106 defeated the Bangor Veterans of Foreign Wars in shuffleboard on the winning team's table yesterday, 8-2.

Taking part in the match for the Eagles were Larry Transue, Warren "Mag" Loney, "Kibby" Koutz, Ed Giffels, Chet Edjys, Austin Henry, Bob Rundle, Harold Blair, Dick Bonnet and Les Jennings.

Members

The Bangor team featured, P. Griebel, D. Krouse, Al Slutter, F. Kistler, F. Bittenbender, V. Weidlich, J. Stolte, L. Coulter, B. Krouse and P. Bittenbender.

The same two teams will clash at the Bangor VFW next Sunday.

Distinguished Record

New Haven (AP) — Yale's famous swimming team has a distinguished record to protect this season. The Elis have a five-year undefeated string and are the defending NCAA and National AAU champions. The backbone of the team again are the three M's — John Marshall, Wayne Moore and Jimmy McLane.

LaSalle Suffers Initial Setback, Kentucky, North Carolina State Win Narrow Decisions

By Rip Watson

New York (AP) — College basketball went into "conference" Saturday night, and only in the south were there any near upsets in the various conference games.

Starting down the long road which leads to NCAA tournament berths for conference champions, most of the early season favorites were in great form in winning opening games. True, Kentucky and North Carolina State, perennial Dixie powers, did have trouble, but they won out in the end, as usual.

Kentucky, defending NCAA and Southeastern Conference champ, trailed Louisiana State by 28-17 at the half, and anxious Wildcats fans sensed the first Kentucky loss at home in 103 games over a period of nine years. Led by soph Billy Evans, however, Kentucky came back strong in the second half and walked off the floor with a 57-47 triumph.

Sixth Straight

North Carolina State, trying for a sixth straight Southern Conference crown, had to battle through two overtime periods to down arch-rival Duke, 72-70. The winning points came in story book fashion as sub Paul Brandenburg threw in a one-hander from near mid-court with but one shot right second to play. This heroic shot, however, merely duplicated an effort by Duke's Bernie Janicki which tied it at 64-all five seconds before the end of regulation time.

These protechniques overshadowed the start of other conference games, which saw Kansas and Illinois, rated first and second in the Associated Press poll of the nation's top ten teams, get off winging. Kansas began its drive for the Big Seven title with a routine 71-48 shellacking of Oklahoma, while defending champion Illinois restricted Minnesota's big Ed Kalafat to one field goal for a 52-43 decision over the Gophers. Kalafat had been averaging 18 points a game.

The Big Ten's other unbeaten teams, Indiana and Iowa, kept pace with the Illini as Indiana, number five team in the poll, dumped Michigan 58-46, and Iowa handed Michigan State its first loss, 61-60.

Washington, ranked third in the poll, whaled Idaho, 61-42, to get even for an upset loss to Idaho last Friday night and regain a head of steam for their drive to another Pacific Coast Conference title. UCLA, beaten by the Huskies last Spring in the play-off for the PC title, bowed to Stanford, 73-71 and Southern California won another thriller from California, 44-43.

On the east coast, Columbia did not begin defense of the Ivy League crown, but Penn, one of the early favorites, solved Yale's zone defense for an 81-55 trouncing.

Similarly, Oklahoma A&M didn't do anything about its Missouri Valley championship, but St. Louis was active and strengthened its threat to the Aggies. The Billikens, rated seventh in the country, rolled at will in the fourth quarter to trounce previously unbeaten LaSalle, 62-46, for their ninth win in 11 starts.

It was a great night for the top ten poll teams, as all came home winners. Besides the difficulties of Kentucky, number four, New York University and St. John's rated sixth and eighth, had considerable trouble at Madison Square Garden. The Violets were slowed by Lafayette's deliberate brand of basketball, but survived a late threat to win by 50-49.

Reds Obtain Young Hurler

Cincinnati (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds have acquired pitcher George McPhail from Baltimore of the International League, giving up utility infielder Sammy Meeks and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Meeks came to Cincinnati from Syracuse in 1949.

Good Record

McPhail, a right-hander, won 24 and lost eight for Pittsburgh in the Canadian-American League last year. The 26-year-old hurler won 17 and lost ten for Sanford, Del., of the Eastern Shore League in 1949 and had a 6-7 record with Bradford, Pa., of the Pony League in 1950.

Baker To Stay At Carnegie Tech

Pittsburgh, (AP) — Dr. Eddie Baker has signed a three year contract as football coach at Carnegie Institute of Technology.

Ends Speculation

His name had been linked with the head coaching vacancy at the University of Pittsburgh. Dr. Baker's record at Tech for three years is 17 wins, six losses and one tie. He is a practicing dentist.

Price Relief Plea Sounded By Coal Men

Pittsburgh, (AP)—Coal prices will go up in 1952 if the industry gets its way.

The National Coal association, a group of operators, sounded an appeal for price relief in a bulletin to members which said:

"The plain facts are that generally coal is not selling at prices which will provide the returns which will make possible carrying out of (the industry's) obligations.

"Coal's costs have risen more than many other industries, yet its pricing policies lag far behind other industries.

"There is nothing inflationary in a fair and honest profit—this our industry failed to secure in 1951. The condition should be corrected before 1952 is well launched."

Coal industry leaders claim they require higher profits to help finance mechanization and expansion. The country's pits now are producing at the rate of about 12 million tons a week—close to maximum output.

The United Mine Workers are expected to ask for a wage increase next spring for miners now earning a basic $16.35 a day. UMW President John L. Lewis has not spelled out his demands but if he wins a pay boost for his 475,000 members, operators will face still another factor which boosts operating costs.

Rehearsals Sometimes Take On Theme Of Class Play's Title

To Ralph Bender, director of the East Stroudsburg High school junior class play, the cast is "the thundering herd."

Cast members, in turn, look upon Bender as the director who calls rehearsals for "7 p. m. sharp" and then shows up at 7:15.

Students and director have accomplished a great deal, however, in the first two weeks' rehearsal for "One Mad Night," this year's junior class production. They have also met and overcome many of the hazards which every amateur production encounters.

One of the first of these occurred when the stage curtain broke during a preliminary rehearsal.

Jim Fritz (who plays a villain in the play) became cast "hero" by standing on a wobbly table to "fix" the curtain.

The "hero of the piece," on the other hand, has been the victim of some backstage villainy during rehearsals.

John Eaton, who plays "Don Cutter" in the play, has received two offers from other workers who volunteered their "expert advice" during rehearsals of love scenes between Eaton and Janet Stewart, who plays the female "lead" in the production.

The two volunteers were Carl Smith, a backstage worker, and George Lits. The latter is "Silet"—a murderer—in the play.

"One Mad Night"—which takes a dim view of the due processes of the law and an unenlightened look at a group of insane people—plays a one-night stand at East Stroudsburg Junior High school auditorium Thursday, Jan. 17 at 8:15 p.m.

Fire Causes $500 Damage

An estimated five to seven hundred dollars damage was caused by a fire which broke out in the Swiftwater postoffice and general store Friday at 3:20 p.m.

The fire, caused by an overheated pipe between the first and second floor partitions, was brought under control by Thomas McGuire, postmaster, and Fred Bauman, a Barrett bus lines driver who was in the store when the fire was discovered.

McGuire and Bauman used three hand extinguishers in bringing the flames under control. Bauman fought the fire from the first floor; McGuire from the second. The flames were stifled in "a matter of minutes," McGuire said.

The fire broke out in the general store portion of building and did not approach the rooms used for mail storage.

Sewage Plants Are Needed 1604 Locations

New York, (AP)—Sewage treatment facilities at an estimated minimum cost of $1,000,000,000 are needed at 724 municipal and 880 industrial locations in the North Atlantic states drainage basins, it was disclosed yesterday in a State-Federal report on water pollution.

The report is one of a series on the country's major drainage basins being prepared under authority of the water pollution control act of 1948.

The North Atlantic section covers the Great Lakes drainage area in New York State and the North Atlantic watershed from the Hudson river to the Potomac river. The states involved are:

Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey, the District of Columbia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, Massachusetts and Vermont.

Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele of the U. S. Public Health service said much data still must be developed for the nine-state area and the District of Columbia, but he added:

"Data and knowledge now available are sufficient, however, to permit the immediate solution of many of the pollution problems within the North Atlantic drainage basins without awaiting the results of additional surveys and studies."

The report describes water pollution in an area covering 103,000 square miles and containing a population of about 30,000,000.

Joe Gill (above) as he appeared a year ago—completely incapacitated by arthritis, wracked with pain and barely able to lift a drinking cup. Joe (below) plays pool and baseball with boys his age today.

Cortisone—Enemy Of Arthritis; 15-Year-Old Youth, Others Show Remarkable Recovery

By Ed Misurell
Central Press Staff Writer

Detroit — Just about a year ago, 15-year-old Joseph Gill was a hopeless cripple and unable to leave his bed. While other youngsters his age were in school, playing games and out having fun, Joe lay wracked by arthritic pains. To all appearances, he was doomed to a life of invalidism.

Today, Joe is a picture of boyish happiness. He shoots pool, plays baseball with his friends, is back in school and is able to get about without the use of crutches or other mechanical aids.

What is responsible for the seeming miracle? The "wonder drug" cortisone and a farsighted group of researchers.

Fortunately for Joe he was one of four persons chosen as "guinea pigs" to participate in a special project under the direction of Dr. John Chase at Detroit's Receiving hospital.

The series of studies are part of a program sponsored by the Michigan chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation with funds from the United Foundation's Torch campaign.

The experiments are aimed at finding new methods to alleviate and possibly cure the suffering of the nation's 3,000,000 or more victims of one of mankind's most painful diseases.

As far back as man can remember, he has been afflicted with arthritis. Through the years fantastic remedies have been tried by countless thousands to overcome the effects of this malady. Centuries ago, doctors considered a bath in oil made from boiled hyenas as a certain cure.

Some of today's "modern treatments" range from sulphur, milk and typhoid serums to bee or cobra venom. Virtually the entire collection of drugs on the pharmacist's shelf has been tossed into the fight against arthritis and yet there is no definite cure for the more than 30 different forms of this disease which have been identified.

One point physicians will agree upon is that treatment must be individualized. No two cases are alike, so each patient must be studied as a whole.

Physical, mental, functional and organic conditions must be recognized and possibly corrected to make any inroads on the disease itself. It may be necessary for the doctor to resort to many kinds of therapy since no treatment now in use succeeds in all cases.

When the experiments began at Detroit hospital, Joe, two women and a man were given very high dosages of cortisone. These were concentrated in fairly short periods.

The researchers under Dr. Chase

COUNTY GOVERNMENT—The next four years of administration of Monroe county's government was set in motion (photo at left) shortly after 10 a.m. yesterday when President Judge Fred W. Davis (right) administered the oath of office to holders of major offices elected at last November's general election. In this group are: Mrs. Mary E. T. Garcia, Mahlon Besecker, John Wernett, county auditors; Elmer D. Christine, district attorney; Amzi F. Altomose, Granville Shiffer, W. Adolph Rake, commissioners; James Gould, prothonotary and clerk of courts; Floyd Butz, register and recorder. Scores of friends and relatives of office holders—some are shown in background—were present to witness the ceremony of administering the oath. (Center) County Commissioners Rake, Altomose, the chairman; Shiffer are shown at their organizational meeting where they elected county employees under their jurisdiction and set as a salary board for all county salaried personnel. Sessions were harmonious. (Right) Board of County Auditors, Mr. Wernett, Mrs. Garcia and Mr. Besecker, met to set up their work covering an audit of the 1951 fiscal affairs of the County of Monroe. First stop will be to make settlement with all the tax collectors of the county. They will be meeting regularly for auditing operations. Commissioners will also meet today and as regularly as necessary to wind up a few organizational details and to prepare studies dealing with a 1952 budget on which the tax rate for the year will be based. (Daily Record photos)

COURT HOUSE OFFICES—Organizational details of varied county offices were completed yesterday. (Top) Judge Chester H. Rhodes, president Superior Court, is shown administering oath of office to Sheriff Jacob F. Altomose. (Two) Ex-District Attorney D. A. Hansen is congratulating District Attorney Elmer D. Christine. (Three) Miss Brownen Arnold, new employee in office of Prothonotary James Gould is shown with Mrs. Florence Ridgeway, Mr. Gould's deputy. Ike To Run For President If GOP Nominates Him

Washington (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's announcement that he would accept "a clear-cut call to political duty" was hailed by Republican supporters yesterday as a signal to throw into gear the Ike-for-president bandwagon.

Touching off a boom of enthusiasm among his backers, the 61-year-old general broke a long silence on his political position by issuing a statement in Paris declaring: "One—He is a Republican."

Two—If nominated by the GOP national convention in Chicago next July, he would feel obliged to accept it as "a duty that would transcend my present responsibility" as supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe.

But the five-star general emphasized that "under no circumstances" would he ask to be relieved of his post abroad to seek the nomination himself.

"And I shall not participate in the pre-convention activities of others who may have such an intention with respect to me," Eisenhower said.

Summarizing the comments of many lawmakers on Capitol Hill, Senator Ives (R-NY) said he felt Eisenhower's statement would "set at rest" any doubts that the general might at the eleventh hour refuse to run.

"Eisenhower will be nominated and elected," Ives predicted.

But others, some of them backing other candidates, expressed misgivings as to the ultimate success of the Eisenhower campaign, chiefly centering on these factors:

One—Eisenhower himself has ruled out any pre-convention aid on his part.

Two—Uncertainty as to the general's views on some subjects, particularly in the realm of domestic political issues.

At the White House, there was no immediate comment from President Truman on the emergence of general Lee, his old friend as a potential opponent to the Democratic nominee.

Mr. Truman has yet to disclose whether he will seek another four-year term in the White House, although he has said he has made up his own mind.

A White House spokesman said that as far as he knew, Eisenhower's statement was not brought to the attention of Mr. Truman as the President continued his conferences with Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Great Britain.

Meanwhile, an open move to launch Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee as a Democratic candidate for the presidency came from Rep. Hays (D-Ohio).

Hays told a news conference that a complete slate of delegates for Kefauver will be entered in the Ohio Democratic primary, set for May 6.

Reds Push U. N. Forces Off Hill

Seoul, Korea, Tuesday (AP)—Allied infantrymen fought within grenade-throwing distance of an important outpost position on the western front yesterday but the Reds forced them back.

A U. S. Eighth Army briefing officer said the United Nations troops battled into the 12th straight day today for a small hill west of Koryangpo. They lost it Dec. 28.

The struggle has been named the battle of Sasi bulge.

The Weather
Some cloudiness with a high of 35-40 today. Not as cold tonight. Wednesday cloudy and slightly milder followed by occasional rain with some freezing rain likely in the mountains.

Altomose Elected Chairman Of Board Of Commissioners

Monroe county's three new commissioners rolled up their sleeves yesterday and disposed of the bulk of appointments and salary approvals.

Amzi F. Altomose, Republican and former sheriff, was named chairman by Adolph Rake, the other Republican commissioner and Granville Shiffer, the only Democrat.

Altomose was also elected chairman of the board of the County Institutional district, Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes, and Salary board.

The commissioners were sworn in by President Judge Fred W. Davis about 10 a.m. At 10:30 they began a day-long opening session at the commissioners' office.

Nearly all decisions of the three were unanimous.

Although the board sat separately for appointments, salary approvals and naming of county home personnel, the following round-up results were announced:

Harry Taylor, Mount Pocono, was appointed chief clerk and secretary to the board of commissioners at a total salary of $3,100 a year ($1,899.96 as chief clerk and $1,200 as secretary of the County Institutional district). His bond was set at $2,000.

James T. Kitson, 702 Thomas St., Stroudsburg, was appointed county solicitor at total salary of $1,800 yearly.

Attorney Forrest J. Mervine, whom Kitson replaces as solicitor, was receiving a salary of $2,800 a year. In a discussion preceding approval of Kitson's salary, Commissioner Altomose said he and Rake had concluded that the county solicitor "has been overpaid."

He said the average pay for a solicitor in the State's seventh-class counties was $1,300.

One of the few dissensions arose over appointment of a chief county assessor. Rake nominated George L. Smith, East Stroudsburg RD 1, and Shiffer nominated Harry D. Kresge, East Stroudsburg, former commissioner.

In the vote which followed, Altomose and Rake elected Smith, with Shiffer not voting.

No appointee was named as head of the Veterans Affairs office. Miss William Rogalski agreed to continue operations as bureau head for another 30 days.

Altomose suggested asking the county's veterans to name the veterans affairs chief they would like to see installed. Rake said he had been told by some veterans they were "not getting the service they want."

"Yes," replied Altomose, "the appointment should satisfy neither political party—it should satisfy the veterans." The post was left open pending discussion with county veterans.

Edward C. Hess, 43 Broad St., Stroudsburg, was retained as the county engineer. Hess has not been on a salary but on an hourly basis.

Inspector of weights and measures was not named, although commissioners said a number of men have applied for the job. The commissioners agreed to delay the appointment until further investigation.

On the commissioners' office staff, Grace Scheller was retained as registration clerk, and Myrtle Butz as assistant chief clerk, at their previous salaries of $45 and $18 respectively.

A suggestion by Shiffer that the two be appointed for four-year terms was rejected.

Retained as janitors were Harry A. Walton at $40 a week and John H. Biggs at $45. Old-timer Milton Berger, 79, who has been at the court house 28 years, was also retained as a janitor with the responsibility of caring for the chambers of Judge Davis and Superior Court Judge Chester H. Rhodes.

At the county institutional board—of which Kitson was named solicitor—preliminary agreement was made that Elizabeth G. Martin be kept as investigator. She is also a county probation officer.

For the county home, at their former monthly salaries, the following staff was retained:

Superintendent, Charles H. Haney, $150; matron, his wife, Emma, $116.66; attendants, Cleveland

The matter of the sheriff's bond was held open until investigation by Kitson.

During the day commissioners paused to hear the request of a destitute Tannersville resident who asked for coal. A telephone clerk with the county assistance board verified the need. An order for one ton was issued.

The commissioners will meet again this morning at 10.

Enterprise Nearer Port

Aboard The Tub Englishman, (AP)—Daringly Capt. Kurt Carlsen made the most last night of his improving chances to bring his listing Flying Enterprise into harbor.

The tub Englishman, chartered by the Associated Press, slid alongside the crippled American freighter at 9:45 p. m. (4:45 p. m. EST). The Flying Enterprise was a black, sluggish lump in the sea being pulled steadily and slowly toward the Cornish port of Falmouth by the powerful British tug Turnoil.

Aboard the Flying Enterprise were Carlsen and his sole companion, Kenneth Dacy, 27, mate of the Turnoil. They were keeping sharp eye on the 730-yard towline which the captain now is confident will hold.

Carlsen and his ship were approximately 110 miles from the Falmouth dock area. She was about 85 miles from the nearest English soil—Land's End and another cape called the Lizard just off Falmouth.

Man's Blood Is Changed Three Times

New York (AP)—A 34-year-old man was alive last night after emergency blood from the Red Cross enabled doctors to change his entire blood supply three times in 72 hours.

This required 44 pints of blood and physicians termed "extraordinary" the use of so much in such a short time.

The patient, Walter Henn, a credit employee of the Burlington Mills textile firm, began bleeding internally last Thursday.

He used up all the supply of blood of his type at Beth Israel hospital, which had only 12 pints on hand.

A rush call to the Red Cross brought more blood. But before the weekend was over, the Red Cross had to be called on twice more.

By yesterday, Henn had undergone surgery and the bleeding apparently had stopped, but he was still on the critical list.

The average adult body contains 14 pints of blood, so the transfusions represented three complete changes.

Churchill-HST Talks Review World Strategy

Washington (AP)—President Truman and British Prime Minister Churchill yesterday reviewed the West's grand strategy for countering international Communism in a second formal White House meeting.

A "top secret" label was clamped on the specific problems discussed during the 90-minute afternoon session. Aides reported no decisions were reached. But there was good reason to believe the two leaders and their military aides talked over:

One—A compromise plan for setting British-American arguments over appointment of a United States admiral to head the Atlantic pact naval forces. The U.S. was reported about ready to give in on this issue.

Two—Britain's campaign to get the U.S. and other Western Allies to use the new British 280 rifle as standard equipment. Britain reportedly was willing to give up its efforts in this field.

Three—Britain's desire for an exchange of top secret atomic information with the United States.

Before the late afternoon session started, Secretary of State Acheson conferred with British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden for 50 minutes at the State Department to discuss German and Western European problems.

Truman Names McDonald As RFC Chairman

Washington, (AP)—W. Stuart Symington resigned as one-man boss of the RFC yesterday and President Truman appointed Harry A. McDonald, a Republican, to succeed him.

McDonald, a Detroit broker, is now chairman of the Securities and Exchange commission (SEC). He told a reporter he will continue Symington's policies.

Mr. Truman said in accepting Symington's resignation, effective Jan. 15, that he did so with regret and with a "well done" for the retiring official's six years of service in high government posts.

The 50-year-old Symington took over as chief of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. last May at a time when the government's multi-billion-dollar lending agency was under heavy congressional fire on charges of yielding to outside influence in granting loans.

The present Cabinet will continue to operate as a caretaker government until a new one is formed. But its effectiveness will be badly hampered, particularly at the high-level international conference tables coming up to bind together a strong western world.

Atlantic City Fire Loss May Reach $1,000,000

Atlantic City, N. J. (AP)—Wind-whipped flames yesterday swept through a two-block section of this seashore resort, gutting a theater, shops and a large part of the St. Charles hotel on the boardwalk.

The blaze, which shot fire more than 100 feet into the air, also leveled three frame hotels, the Congress, Laraine and New Davis, and 12 spacious rooming houses.

City Fire Chief Rex Farley said damage "might go as high as $4,000,000."

FIRST DINNER — Mrs. Francis Altemose, widow of former Sheriff Francis Altemose and mother of the new sheriff, Jacob F. Altemose, was on hand to help her son. $700 Needed To Obtain Seal Quota

Only $700 is needed to complete the Monroe County Tuberculosis society's annual Christmas seal sale budget of $3,000, and there are 3,000 persons in Monroe county who received seals who have not made returns, a check of seal sale records showed yesterday.

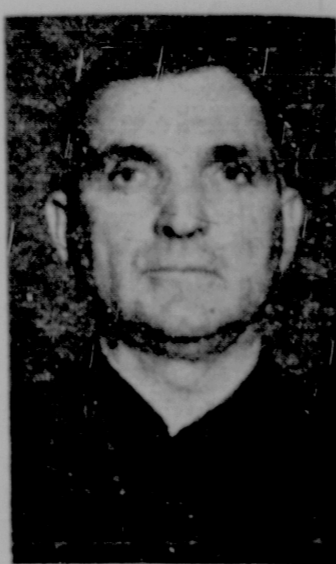

Less than one-fourth of those who have not made returns for the seals could wipe out the $700 deficit by promptly sending money for the seals to TB society headquarters at 621 Sarah St., Stroudsburg.

Actual cash returns to date total $7,300. Returns of 5,296 letters have been counted.

Reminder cards or notes have been sent out to those persons who have not yet returned funds for the seals.

"We are confident that during the next five or six days these people will respond to our request and make final settlement for the seals," Mrs. Estelle Fleming, executive secretary said.

Said Carl T. Secor, president of the society: "Without the complete $8,000 we have budgeted the outstanding services to citizens of Monroe county rendered in past years, especially last year when over 8,000 persons received free chest X-rays, will have to be curtailed."

Orchestra To Resume Rehearsals

The Young People's orchestra will resume rehearsals Wednesday night in preparation for the second concert of its 1951-52 season.

Charlotte Herman, East Stroudsburg High school student, will perform as soloist in the Beethoven Piano Concerto No. 2. Also featured on the concert program will be Schubert's "Unfinished" Symphony.

The concert is scheduled for

William Knowles
... appointed sheriff's deputy

April 2, according to Thomas H. Knepp, director of the orchestra.

A special "pop" concert for the benefit of the Monroe County General hospital fund and sponsored by the hospital auxiliary will be played "sometime early in May," Knepp said last night.

School Council Drafts New Constitution

East Stroudsburg High school student council members have scheduled a special assembly for 8:50 a. m. Wednesday for the presentation of a newly-drafted constitution for proposed student government.

The new constitution will be read to the entire student body at the assembly. Following the assembly the constitution is slated for discussion in all the rooms throughout the high school.

Paving the way for this full-scale presentation, student council members have distributed copies of the new governmental setup to all home rooms and posted copies on all school bulletin boards. Additional copies of the constitution are available to all students at the office of Senior High Principal Ralph O. Burrows.

Lowell Fellman, president of the 1952 student council will act as chairman for the special assembly. The student body is expected to vote on the proposed new constitution Thursday following thorough discussion in classes.

Why it is Necessary to Raise Telephone Rates

Like any other business, this Company has been hard hit by the continued upward surge in the cost of running a business.

The cost of everything that goes into furnishing telephone service has continued to go up.

Expenses are increasing at a substantially faster rate than revenues—in spite of the savings resulting from new and improved equipment and methods of operations.

Like any other business, we must buy materials, services and supplies at prices that have continued to rise.

Like any other business, we have had to meet sharply mounting taxes which affect the cost of any product or service. In the last three years, our Federal and State tax bill has more than doubled.

Like any other business, we are paying substantially higher wages to keep pace with the general trends. Wages are by far the biggest single item of telephone expense.

The result of higher costs, higher taxes and higher wages has been a sharp downward trend in earnings on our plant investment which has been greatly enlarged in the past three years.

The increase in telephone rates which became effective in 1949 falls far short of offsetting these factors which have developed since that time. That was the only increase in our telephone rates in the last twenty-eight years—in striking contrast to the increase in cost of almost everything else.

Under these circumstances, we must raise our prices... like any other business.

But... before this Company's rates can be raised, they are subject by law to investigation and review by the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission.

Thousands of people in Pennsylvania are waiting for telephone service. Thousands more apply each month. We must take care of them. In addition, we must continue to furnish good telephone service for our customers. And, finally, the vital communications requirements of National Defense must be met.

To do the job, we must continue to expand.

But, unlike many other businesses, we—as a public utility—do not get the dollars needed for large scale expansion from the money our customers pay us for service. Money to expand telephone facilities must come largely from investors. And we must, of course, pay a fair return for the use of their dollars.

It is in the public interest that the Telephone Company be in a sound financial position so that it can continue to discharge its responsibilities.

We have mailed to each of our customers information on the rate changes for his community. Complete schedules of these rates are now on file in our Business Offices.

Bell Telephone Co. Files $2,696,300 Monthly Rate Increase With State PUC

The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania yesterday morning filed new tariffs with the Public Utility Commission at Harrisburg providing for general increases in telephone rates throughout the state.

New rates are scheduled to become effective March 17, unless suspended by the PUC.

Under new schedules, residence basic rates generally will be increased 50 cents a month and residence extension telephones will be increased ten to 15 cents monthly, depending upon type of service.

Other rate changes include: a minimum ten cent charge for coin box calls; a minimum ten cent rate for intrastate toll calls; five-cent increase, generally, on station-to-station toll calls up to 150 miles; and increases ranging from 50 cents to $2 a month on basic business service.

None of these new rates includes the 15 per cent Federal tax applicable on local service since 1941.

Comparative figures, showing present and new rates, were submitted yesterday on behalf of the company by Budd Van Horn, local business manager of the concern. They follow:

New Business Rates in the Stroudsburg Exchange
	Present	New
Individual	$6.00	$7.25
Two-party	4.75	6.00
Multi-party	4.25	5.25
Private branch exchange trunk	7.50	9.00
Semi-public 30-day period guarantee	5.10	6.30
Extension station	1.25	1.50
Branch exchange station	1.25	1.50

New Resident Rates in the Stroudsburg Exchange
	Present	New
Individual	$3.50	$4.00
Two-party	2.75	3.25
Four-party	2.25	2.75
Multi-party	2.25	2.75
Extension station	.85	1.00

W. D. Gillen, president of the company, said that increased costs of virtually everything needed to run the business have brought the company's present rate of earnings on its plant investment close to the lowest level of the depression years.

"Our need for adequate financial relief is immediate and urgent," he said.

All of the increases, the company estimates, will bring total monthly gross revenues of $2,696,300, or less than half that amount—$1,203,000—after taxes.

Said Gillen: "The new rates will produce an increase of only 15 per cent in the company's gross revenues. Adding the increase granted in 1949—the first and only one in 26 years—the increase in the overall cost of telephone service will be only 29 per cent above the 1940 level.

"This is less than one-third of the general increase of 90 per cent in the cost of living index," Gillen emphasized.

"To meet the continuing heavy demands for service on the part of the public, and the national defense program, the company is planning to invest $80,800,000 for

Civil Defense To Set Policy For Resorts

A meeting of the Executive committee has been called by Monroe County Civil Defense Chairman Judge Fred W. Davis for 4 p. m. Friday, January 18, in Judge Davis' office at Monroe county court house.

The committee will discuss setting up a Civil Defense policy for resorts in the Pocono area. Future air raid drills and the advisability of reproducing drill instructions for general use also will be under discussion at Friday's meeting.

The allocation of steel helmets and other civilian defense equipment which has recently arrived at Monroe county defense headquarters will be discussed by members of the committee.

PICTURED ABOVE is Dr. Lara Hoggard who will take part in the direction of the special Monroe County Choral Workshop for church musicians to be sponsored by the Monroe County Ministerial Association and the Waring organization. A resident of Shawnee-on-Deleware, Dr. Hoggard is dean of instruction for the famed Fred Waring Music Workshop and choral director of Waring's Pennsylvanians.

First Aid Stockpile

Prayerfully hopeful that the day will never come when enemy A-bombs fall on Pennsylvania cities, but nonetheless mindful of such a possibility, the State Civil Defense Council will soon stockpile some $4 millions of dollars worth of drugs and emergency first aid as an investment in civilian relief.

The big sum has been appropriated by the General Assembly for civil defense use, and initially about half of it will be spent for medical supplies to be stored away in state hospitals and state-supported institutions. These drugs will be replaced as they are used by the hospitals, in order that they will always be fresh and ready for use.

In addition, inexpensive litters will be manufactured at state correctional institutions and also stored against the day everyone hopes will never come.

All of the supplies to be ordered under the direction of Dr. Richard F. Gerstell, state director will be stockpiled under a plan being jointly prepared by the State Health Department and the Pennsylvania Medical Society, thus assuring the best professional advice for their placement and eventual utilization.

It is of interest to our taxpayers to remember that for every dollar the state spends on civil defense, the Federal government matches the sum, dollar for dollar, and thus with the recent approved appropriation Pennsylvania will have an $8 million dollar fund with which to begin the preparation of the commonwealth for whatever eventuality may occur.

The subject of civil defense preparations is not a happy one to contemplate, but the sensible manner in which it is being approached makes one realize that despite our naive hopes for national security, wishing alone will not guaranty such a halcyon situation.

Hitchhiking Hoaxers

Not funny, is the way we view the case of the wandering "victims of the Kansas flood" who, after a Pottstown radio station described their pathetic plight and started an avalanche of aid in their direction, turned out to be victims of nothing at all except an urge to hoax the public.

We say it is not funny because of the implications of the trick. If fakery is able to get away with that sort of thing, then the natural sympathies of the American public will be blunted and many a deserving soul might well be denied the help he requires.

Olympic Competition

Marvelous to relate, the Russians are entering a number of their hand-picked athletes to compete in the 1952 Olympic games, and for the first time since 1912, representatives of the huge nation will battle it out in Helsinki with the athletes of many another nation, including our own.

As usual, the Russian tendency to exaggerate everything they do is indicated in the announcement by Comrade Romanov, president of the Soviet Olympics Commission, that he will send Russians to compete in 21 different types of sport. This is quite interesting, since there are only 17 divisions on the program listed for next summer, but it is thought that maybe the Russians are sub-dividing the track and field division into a number of others.

In any case, the Soviet official has called upon all hands behind the Iron Curtain to achieve the highest degree of athletic skill, second to none, and he also snarls that the Soviet Sports Commission intends to take measures to liquidate backwardness in unsatisfactory sports. In other words, comrades, get in there and win... or else.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Movie producer Sam Goldwyn was a visitor to Television's "What's My Line?" one Sunday evening. That's a show in which I've participated recently, along with Arlene Francis, Dorothy Kilgallen, John Daly, and Hal Block. Mr. G. was the "mystery guest" of the week, and according to custom the panel put on blindfolds before he entered.

Unfortunately, his identity was no particular mystery to me, since the day before the show he had impulsively phoned to demand, "Hey, what kind of questions are you going to ask me tomorrow night?" I confirmed my intention to ask "Are you a comedian?" (Mr. G. answered "no") and let somebody else guess his identity. Later Sam asked, "Why didn't you give me a chance to mention 'I Want You'?" I pointed out that I had purposely inquired "Why are you in New York?" but that he had failed to take advantage of the opening. Sam replied, "You know I never listen!"

Hollywood

By Gene Handaker

Hollywood—A sort of shy little man, Jim Jordan, sat in a Brown Derby booth the other day, put his brown-rimmed glasses on and off 15 or 20 times, and thought back. Thought back on the 17 years that he and his wife, Marian, have been playing Fibber and Molly on the radio.

Now take that closet, perhaps the most celebrated single prop in all their shows. Once on every program, Fibber happens to open it, and all creation of accumulated junk falls out of it with an enormous and hilarious clatter.

Actually it is probably the phoniest fixture ever assigned a radio star. For Fibber, or Jim, is a passionately neat and methodical man. "I know that this pocket contains my wallet and comb, this one my cigarette lighter, and this one a package of gum and my keys," he said, producing them from coat pockets for proof.

His dresser drawer at home contains a handkerchief box of his own creation, with brown, blue, and other-trimmed hankies segregated into nine compartments. The tools of his workshop hang neatly on hooks. "We worked the closet gag one night," he said, "and it got a big yak. So we kept it in."

Fibber and Molly are from Peoria, as most fans know. They met at choir practice at St. John's Catholic church when he was 18 and she 17, and married three years later. They went into vaudeville—"I sang and she played the piano. But like being a burglar, you didn't tell anybody about it around Peoria."

They went into radio to increase their drawing-power in theaters. Fibber did a lying, Baron Munchausen character, from which their writer, Don Quinn, thought of the name Fibber McGee. "Molly" was suggested by a song.

Recently they did their show as a Community Chest benefit in Omaha. Some 12,000 or more people came, from miles around. "It proves," Fibber said, "that radio is not as dead as people think it is. Omaha has had top TV for more than a year, at the west end of the network. Our visit proves, I think that after a while people go back and listen to the radio."

TV plans for the McGees? "Maybe later," said Fibber. "But we're not as young and hungry

These Days -- By George E. Sokolsky

Sokolsky

Don To Father
In our way of life, the family is the center of society and the relations between parents and children are governed by the ad m o n i t i o n, "Honor thy father and thy mother." Inherent in the concept of the family is loyalty, a noble quality without which human relations could only exist in a climate of suspicion and distrust.

In the early stages of the Marxist Revolution in any country, direct attacks are made on the family and children are taught to distrust, even to hate their parents. I once encountered a dietum in psychology that fathers are naturally jealous of their sons as mothers are envious of their daughters. I presume that the author of this nonsense hoped to improve human relations by teaching this to the young. Parents would do well to examine the psychology textbooks that their children are required to read.

The potency of this came to me when I read in Edward Hunter's "Brain-Washing in Red China" the denunciation of Dr. Hu Shih by his son.

Hu Shih has played the role in modern China of Dante, Boccaccio and Petrarch played in Italy of the Renaissance. He bridged the ancient to the current. He wrote poetry, not in the classical tongue, but in the spoken language of the people. The first volume of his "History of Chinese Philosophy" was a best-seller. He edited a library of novels which had become the folklore of his race. He has come to be known as the father of the "Literary Revolution."

Studying at Cornell and Columbia, he came under the influence of William James and John Dewey and brought back with him to China the American concept of Pragmatism. No matter what one's view may be of Pragmatism, Dr. Hu, instead of devoting himself solely to scholarship, became the man of action, making a profound impression on his time. He has served as Chinese Ambassador to the United States and is now librarian of the Gest Library at Princeton.

This is his background in summary. The son is now in Peking, under the Communists. What his true sentiments toward his father are, now I do not know. I do not believe the father knows. In opening his denunciation of his father, the son wrote:

"In the old society, I considered my father as an 'aloof' and 'clean' good man. Even after the liberation I felt deeply insulted whenever my father was being criticized..."

However, the Communist Revolution changed his mind about his father:

"After 1919 he drifted farther down the wrong way. He praised Leninism and battled materialism with experimentalism. He himself was wandering among the rulers of those days, hoping his 'evolutionism' would be adopted by them. At the ebb of revolution he hoped to establish a good school. He thought through education a society might become good. He organized the China public school. But under the threat of the Nanking government his dream was shattered and he was forced to leave the public school. The weak capitalist intellectuals never dared resist the 'government.' He, like all other members of his class, bowed his head to the reactionary government, and turned to Chiang Kai-shek to practice his doctrine of reforms."

The entire document cannot be given here because it is too long. Yet, the following is so tragic, particularly when one knows the father, with whom I went to school as far back as 1915 and whom I have known intimately since then.

"Today, after my education in the party, I begin to recognize his true qualities. I have come to know that he is a loyal element of the reactionary class and an enemy of the people. Politically, he has never been progressive. After his publication of the 'Problem and Doctrine', in 1919, he wandered on the road of indecision. For 11 years, he groped in the labyrinth of darkness. In 1930, he began to participate actively in the work of strengthening of the reactionary government..."

"Until my father returns to the people's arms, he will always remain a public enemy of the people, and an enemy of myself. Today, in my determination to rebel against my own class, I feel it important to draw a line of demarcation between my father and myself..."

"As I read this pathetic document, I could only think of Captain John J. Swift's remark on his return from his Hungarian imprisonment when he told reporters these two sentences should be dropped from the English language: 'This can't happen to me. It can't happen here.'"

Washington Report

By Fulton Lewis Jr.

Washington—The proposal to place a 25 per cent ceiling on peacetime tax rates on individual and corporation incomes, will be placed in the laps of the House and Senate Judiciary committees during the new session of Congress.

Advocates of slicing a huge chunk off non-defense Federal spending have already submitted resolutions calling on both committees to conduct hearings on the proposal. The White House and Treasury Department, of course, will publicly oppose the tax ceiling. On the basis of present rates, a 25 per cent ceiling would drop off $18,000,000,000 from the current tax load we are carrying.

Legislatures of more than 20 states formally requested Congress to call a Constitutional convention for the purpose of submitting the tax ceiling idea to the 48 states. Thirty-two states must approve a resolution on the subject before Congress is required to act. If Congress adopts the proposal, 36 of the 48 states would be required to approve it before it would become a part of the Constitution.

Representative Noah Mason, Republican of Illinois, has submitted a resolution that calls for an amendment to the Constitution limiting federal income tax rates to a maximum rate of 25 per cent. Congress could act directly on the Mason resolution, which repeal the 16th amendment that authorizes Congress to levy taxes without limit. The new amendment would limit rates on gift and estate taxes, as well as on income taxes.

Opponents of the proposed 25 percent ceiling argue that the proposal would not stop the administration's spending spree. The Treasury Department would merely resort to further deficit financing or speed up the printing of more paper money, is the tenor of one argument against the proposal. There is one other evasion available to the fair deal spenders. A crisis could be maintained indefinitely, since the tax ceiling proposal would apply only when there is no war or threat of war.

Mason and others urging the tax limitation, point that there is the only device available to end the abuse of excessive federal taxation of incomes. An additional gain would be the restoration of an incentive for business and individuals to invest in more enterprises. There is even the possibility that people might once again save money, which is practically an impossibility at the present time.

A tax ceiling that loped off $18,000,000,000 from the government's income would force the curtailment of many pet administration agencies. This is exactly what proponents of the measure want to do. The first curtailment would undoubtedly be in the funds used for grant in aid programs in the various states. This would not hurt as much as opponents of the measure indicate, however, since individual states would assume the responsibility of financing and performing the service now done for them by the federal government. In fact, a limit on federal taxation would permit state and local governments to utilize the sources of income that are now denied because of the tax bite taken by the federal government. Some of the states that have approved the tax limit resolution are using this argument to force Congress to take action. It's a cinch that as we were. If we go into TV, and do it badly, we can hurt what we've done in radio."

Fibber and Molly have no thought of retiring. "We've been in it so long," he said, "we wouldn't live very long if we did."

Looking at Life

By Erich Brandeis

Brandeis

The less said about them the better.

But one thing that impressed me so forcefully was that the weakest characters always made the biggest asses of themselves.

At one of these affairs there was one young fellow who made more noise, did more talking, more showing off and more drinking than anyone else.

By the middle of the evening he had pawed every woman, insulted almost every man (except those much bigger than himself) and consumed an undoggy amount of liquor.

Then, when going-home time came, he couldn't be found. At last the host did find him—fast asleep in one of the bathtubs.

During the past few years I have cut out practically all drinking.

Not for moral reasons, I assure you, but just because drinking didn't agree with me. That was one reason.

But there was another one. I felt that I was enough of a fool already without encouraging any further foolishness by feeding it with liquor.

I am definitely not against liquor. You can drink all you want as far as I am concerned.

But I AM against making more of an ass of myself than Nature has made of me.

This young man of the bathtub was a beard.

Beards were very much in style once upon a time.

Christ wore a beard. Lincoln wore a beard.

But beards have gone out of style—perhaps because it is so difficult to be Christ-like or Lincoln-like.

Whenever I see a man with a beard nowadays—particularly a young man—I think he has something to hide.

It may be a receding chin or it may be a terrific inferiority complex.

People who make the biggest noises are usually the ones who have the most fear in their hearts.

When they are sober they grow beards. When they get drunk they make a lot of noise and become generally obnoxious.

There seems to be a general impression that when a person is drunk he isn't himself.

That is a lot of bunk.

I think that alcohol is the greatest lie detector in the world. It loosens all the inhibitions. It eats off all the veneer.

It shows a fellow up for what he really is.

And when I say "fellow" I mean the female fellow, too.

Whenever a sweet young thing starts to sing "Sweet Adeline"—get her wraps and take her home.

Another drink or two and she will have ceased to be a sweet young thing and become an ugly vixen.

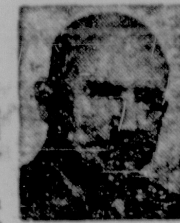

The moral of this story: Don't get drunk. You may show yourself for what you really are.

Conference With Winston

Harry: Welcome, Winnie. I'm glad to see you or nearly so.

Winston: It does me good to visit Washington again, Harry... I hope.

Harry: How have you been?

Winston: I haven't had the chance you have had to swim this winter, but I feel pretty good. And you?

Harry: I'm in better shape than the Republicans say but not as good as the Democratic claim. I see you won an election.

Winston: Yes, when a British Government is a failure it gets out.

Harry: That used to be true in this country, but we Democrats changed it.

Winston: My victory was due to the conclusion Socialism had gone far enough.

Harry: I'm safe until the American voters reach a similar verdict. It's a tough job I have, Winnie.

Winston: Look who's talking! Your job is apple pie compared to mine.

Harry: You may be a good judge of world events but you are no judge of pastry.

Winston: Didn't you enjoy your Key West vacation?

Harry: No, I kept getting the newspapers and radio newscasts. Winston: You mustn't mind criticism. Into each life some rain must fall.

Harry: There are times when I feel I am standing under Niagara Falls without even a bathing cap. In a time of great problems you have a big advantage over me... you can do things with brushes and bricks.

Winston: Why don't you try painting? Look at me and Grandma Moses.

Harry: You and Grandma Moses don't have to paint during Senate investigations.

Winston: Well, let's get down to you know what.

Harry: Business?

Winston: That's an ugly word. I promised I wouldn't use it. Let's say we are just going over mutual problems. After all, we both have headaches.

Borough Councils Swear In New Members, Elect Officers

Lawson Named To Presidency In Stroudsburg

Speediest organizational meeting of a Stroudsburg council in history was completed in about 15 minutes last night with administration of oath to two council members, election of a president, secretary, treasurer and all borough employees, and assignment of gasoline contracts for 1952.

Edward R. Lawson, starting his second term as councilman from the Second ward, was elected president of council by unanimous vote, after Chief Burgess Hal H. Harris administered the oath of office to Mr. Lawson and Daniel Warner, new councilman from Stroudsburg's Fourth ward.

Said Mr. Lawson after his election: "I appreciate the confidence you've placed in me. I've worked with the borough officers and employees four years and your councilmen two years. I've learned to respect your judgment and opinions, and I feel we'll have a successful year. To that end I'll endeavor to discharge this responsibility to the best of my ability."

Harold E. Snyder was re-elected secretary and James Somers was again named borough treasurer. First Stroudsburg National Bank was continued as depository for borough funds and bonds of all officers were continued in the same amounts.

All borough employees were re-named in a blanket motion. Police are automatically retained since they are under Civil Service.

Secretary Snyder said the borough completed 1951 with a balance of $21,574.32 as of December 31. He noted that tax collections were over the estimated 85 percent set up in the budget by some $3,000.

The balance exists despite all operations costs and charges and $35,000 worth of permanent improvements during 1950.

Gasoline and oil contracts were awarded as follows:

Police vehicles: George Dellavere; street equipment, Bittner & Scheller and Gulf at Fifth and Main; garbage truck, Richfield, W. Main, and fire equipment, Ruster's Garage.

Council adjourned to meet Monday, January 14 when work will be started on the 1952 budget.

Gould Selects Miss Ridgeway Chief Deputy

James Gould, sworn in as county prothonotary yesterday named Mrs. Florence Ridgeway, 2064 Miller St., Stroudsburg, as his deputy.

Mrs. Ridgeway, an old hand in the prothonotary's office, served as deputy under Claude Metzger during his three terms of office.

One change was made in staff personnel: the former clerk, Mrs. Robert Beecher, Bartonsville, was replaced by Miss Brownen Arnold, Stroudsburg.

Gould said no immediate changes are planned in office routine, but some may be made after he familiarizes himself with procedures.

Gould, an Effort resident, said he will continue to operate his milk distributing business there.

The prothonotary's brother, George, owns a dairy farm, Pine Hill Farms, and James Gould owns a bottling plant and distributing trucks.

The brothers have been distributing milk in the Stroudsburg and surrounding area since 1931.

Approval Doubted

Washington, (AP)—Senator Russell (D-Ga.) said yesterday he doesn't believe Congress will approve a measure opening the way for Gen. Mark Clark to become ambassador to the Vatican. President Truman is expected to ask Congress shortly after it convenes Tuesday to act on a bill which would permit Clark to retain his military status while serving as a diplomat.

Cars Collide On Route 115

Saylorsburg—Two cars collided at 6:45 p.m. yesterday on Route 115 in front of the Lake House here, but there were no injuries.

Brookheads State police said Albert Burridge, 29, Wilkes-Barre, was driving south and John Hilliard, 55, Saylorsburg, was headed north.

Hilliard swung left across the highway, intending to go toward the post office, police said. The car crossed directly in front of the oncoming Burridge car, police added.

Burridge veered sharp left in an attempt to avoid the accident, but the right rear end of his auto struck the other's right front. Damages were $125 to Burridge's car and $75 to Hilliard's.

Hilliard will be arrested for operating on the wrong side of the highway, police said. Information was filed with Justice of the Peace John Wernett, Saylorsburg.

Driver Training Term Completed

An address by Walter R. McClelland, vice president of C. H. Crowe, Inc., insurance agency, brought to a conclusion the first term of East Stroudsburg High school's driver training course.

McClelland pointed out the renewed responsibilities of "teen-age drivers" to other motorists on the highways and stressed the recent upsurge of accidents involving young drivers.

The East Stroudsburg High school driver training course is conducted under the supervision of Jack Kist, Hayes Motor Co. furnished the vehicle for the course.

Rites Held For J. K. Wismer, Veteran Tobyhanna Blacksmith

Tobyhanna—Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at 1:30 at Tobyhanna Methodist church for James K. Wismer, until his death last week the oldest living native of Tobyhanna. Mr. Wismer was 85.

He learned a trade as a blacksmith during the early years of the original Tobyhanna lumber industry when plants and mills depended entirely upon river transportation for logs and timber. After a number of years with the lumber firm he went into business for himself as a blacksmith in this area.

In 1902, Mr. Wismer became the first official salesman of gasoline and gasoline products in the Tobyhanna area. At that time he delivered the gasoline personally.

Fifteen years later, in 1917, he became manager of the Atlantic Refinery Co. in this area, delivering gasoline by horse and buggy to the entire Pocono region.

In 1921 he resigned from the Atlantic office and opened a combination grocery store, lunchroom and "modern" gas station at Tobyhanna. The business became a partnership in 1925 when a son, Ernest, joined his father in the firm.

The year 1929 saw the expansion of the business to include a retail coal delivery system which has continued in operation to the present time. At the time of Mr. Wismer's death the business included a chain of three gasoline service stations in the Tobyhanna area.

Officiating clergyman at yesterday afternoon's services was Rev. Richard Devor.

Pallbearers were Frank Hochrime, Irvin Foster, Lawrence Reitz, Ande Inderill, Edgar Wiley and John Wilton.

Interment was made in Pine Grove cemetery, South Sterling.

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha K. Palmer, 80, Delaware Water Gap, who died Thursday, were held yesterday at William H. Clark funeral home, Stroudsburg, with Rev. Hubert D. Newton, Delaware Water Gap Presbyterian church, officiating.

Pallbearers were George, Richard and Joseph Hauser, Russell Buzzard, Herbert Shellenberger, Earl Carlton; at the organ console was Vernon Imbl.

Wiggins Starts Third Term In East Borough

Harold Wiggins, first ward councilman, was re-elected president of the East Stroudsburg borough council at an organizational meeting last night.

The meeting followed swearing-in ceremonies conducted by Burgess L. J. Kleinle. Councilmen sitting for the first time were Charles Buenzli, Second ward, and Thomas Sexton, Fifth ward. Also sworn was Verdon T. Gilliland, re-elected from the Fourth ward.

Sterling Cramer was re-named council secretary; and C. R. Bessinger Sr. as solicitor at $600 yearly.

The new treasurer, Clifford Lambert, is assistant cashier at the East Stroudsburg National bank, which was named at the meeting last night as this year's depository for the borough's general fund, water fund, and street-opening account fund.

Set as depository for the police pension fund was the Monroe County National bank. There are coupon and sinking fund accounts at both banks. The major funds (water and general) are transferred from one bank to the other every two years, according to precedent.

Other appointees—all of them retained from last year—and salary scales approved were:

Henry Lesoine, superintendent of streets and water, $3,280; Durling Ace, his assistant, $2,660; A. E. Engelhardt, superintendent of fire alarm, $600; Arthur Swink, police chief, $3,204; Travis Seese, assistant chief, $3,008; Ed Harloe, Russell Walton, Donald Quick, patrolmen, $2,900 each; Louis Caramella, patrolman, $2,400 until his period of probation expires on March 1, then $2,700; Jesse Frantz, janitor, $2,660.

Edward C. Hess, who was also named county engineer yesterday, was retained as borough engineer at the hourly rate of $3.

Council also set $1.15 an hour as pay for special police and laborers; approved two weeks of vacation with pay for full-time salaried employees; decided to furnish police uniforms again; set regular meetings for 7:30 p.m. on the first Tuesday of each month.

Present besides Kleinle, Wiggins, Cramer, Buenzli, Sexton and Gilliland were Jack Wyckoff, Third ward, and Roy F. Lloyd, Sixth ward.

When council meets again tonight at 7:30 at the municipal building, Wiggins will be starting his 15th year as a councilman and his third term as council president.

Bangor Council Reorganizes

Bangor—At an annual organizational meeting the Bangor borough council selected officers for the year.

Installed at the meeting were John Farleigh, president; William Sleeman, secretary; Fred McFall, treasurer; J. Lawrence Davis, solicitor; Walter Pritchard, road supervisor; David O. Pritchard, engineer and Pasqual Vicario, special police.

Among new councilmen welcomed to their first meeting by Burgess Hayden B. Pritchard were John I. Correll, Walter Warwick, Louis Trijani, George Plush Sr., Alfred Counterman and Harry Desher Sr.

The council approved the purchase of an old Liberty Fire Co. truck by the North Bangor Fire Co. for $325.

In the financial report a general fund total of $7,228.45 was shown with the following amounts shown for other funds: Special road improvement fund—$1,097.13; parking meter fund—$1,587.84; sinking fund—$12,193.18; police pension fund—$4,859.43; mobile equipment fund—$2,600.30.

Taxes collected in the month of December, 1951, amounted to $923.33.

The combined annual report of the burgess and police department showed: Parking meter receipts—$11,058.83—a gain of $774.85 over the previous year's report; licenses—$390.15—a gain of $41.60 over 1950.

Rites Held For Jeremiah Bonser

Brookheads—Funeral services were held in Kresge funeral home here yesterday afternoon for the late Jeremiah Bonser of Saylorsburg.

Rev. Leroy Benard officiated and interment was made in McMichael's cemetery. Grandsons acted as pallbearers.

Funeral services for Mrs. Martha K. Palmer, 80, Delaware Water Gap, who died Thursday, were held yesterday at William H. Clark funeral home, Stroudsburg, with Rev. Hubert D. Newton, Delaware Water Gap Presbyterian church, officiating.

Death Claims Mrs. Maria Hickethier

Mrs. Maria E. Hickethier, wife of R. W. Hickethier, Foxtown Hill, died in Allentown hospital Sunday at 6:30 p. m. She had been a patient there ten days.

Born in Germany, Mrs. Hickethier came to Stroudsburg with her husband from New York City in 1910. She was a member of St. Matthew's Catholic church, East Stroudsburg.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are one son, Conrad D., at home; two sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Taxweller, Mount Carmel, Pa. and Mrs. Elizabeth Selpeck, Germany; one brother, Joseph Pluke, Williamsville, Vt.

Requiem mass will be celebrated Thursday at 9:30 a. m. at St. Matthew's Catholic church in East Stroudsburg with rosary services conducted Wednesday at 8 p. m. at Dunkelberger and Westbrook funeral home.

Interment will be in the Gate of Heaven section of Laurelswood cemetery. Friends may pay their respects at the funeral home Wednesday after 7 p. m.

Businessmen Draft Plans

At a meeting of the Stroudsburg Businessmen's association at Biggs' Restaurant last night, promotional plans for an extensive three-day January clearance sale were discussed.

The sale, held by local businessmen in conjunction with The Daily Record, is slated for Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Jan. 17, 18 and 19.

Specific plans were brought up by promotion managers for individual businesses throughout the borough. President Bert George presided at the meeting during discussion.

E. H. Wyckoff called the businessmen's attention to the increased seriousness of shoplifting in stores in the borough. Members of the association promised action to prevent theft from local retailers.

D. A. Prepares New Offices

District Attorney Elmer D. Christine was preparing new quarters at the county court house yesterday.

The new D. A. was sworn in by President Judge Fred W. Davis. Although retired district attorney Detlef A. Hansen worked from his private offices on Ninth St., outside the court house, his successor plans to conduct the district attorney's office a little closer to the scene of future prosecutions.

Attorney Christine will be occupying the former Veterans Affairs office on the second floor of the court house.

The Veterans Affairs office will be moved to one of the county-owned buildings adjoining the court house.

Criticizes Delay

Van Fleet's Chauffeur To Return Home

Cpt. Ronald L. Eppley, of East Stroudsburg, who has served as chauffeur for Lt. Gen. James A. Fleet, U. S. Eighth Army commander in Korea, and for Vice President Alben W. Barkley during his recent trip to the Far East, is coming back home on a rotation furlough.

He is one of 1,456 Army personnel due in Seattle, Wash., today aboard the U. S. Navy transport Pvt. Sadao Munemori.

The corporal, a son of Mrs. Martha Eppley, of 25 Washington St., has been overseas two years. When he first went to Tokyo in January, 1950, he was a military policeman, but a year later he volunteered for combat duty in Korea and served with the Ninth Infantry Regiment.

Wounded in action in March, 1951, Corporal Eppley spent several weeks in a hospital and then was assigned to an honor guard detachment. He later transferred to the 21st T. Car Co., which provides drivers for high-ranking U. S. Army officers, including General Van Fleet. He has served as one of the general's chauffeurs since Van Fleet was named to succeed Gen. Matthew Ridgway upon the latter's advancement to Allied commander in place of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Helped Make Auto Age Possible

Edgar Van Why, manager of the local B. F. Goodrich store, 502 Main St., Stroudsburg, yesterday reflected there have been 80 years of "famous firsts" by B. F. Goodrich.

"Putting the customer first," he said, "keeps B. F. Goodrich first in rubber."

The story of the B. F. Goodrich Co., and how it grew side by side with another present day industrial giant, began back in 1896. Alexander Winton, maker of the Winton car, came to B. F. Goodrich in 1896, looking for a more practical cushioning for his car. BFG developed a pneumatic automobile tire for him, the first tire for an automobile offered for sale in the U. S.

That same year, B. F. Goodrich produced tires made with casing and inner tube for the Polk Automobile Co., and thus became the first commercial manufacturer of auto tires in this country.

Mr. Van Why emphasizes these B. F. Goodrich "firsts" did much to make possible the "auto age". In 1910, the progress of the automobile was sharply advanced by the introduction of the first cord tire in America. Christened the "Silvertown" this revolutionary tire had plies of cable-type cords without cross threads, giving it greater strength and flexibility. This advance answered a crying need of the infant airplane industry too, and so another BFG "first"—the first cord aircraft tire—went to work to make take-offs and landings smoother and safer.

On June 5, 1940 at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel in New York, newsmen, businessmen, scientists and government officials had their first look at a tire in which BFG man-made rubber, Ameripol, replaced more than 50 per cent of the crude rubber.

With it, B. F. Goodrich demonstrated—18 months before Pearl Harbor—that America could be independent of foreign rubber. Today's high quality cold rubber was made possible because of outstanding discoveries made by BFG scientists in 1940.

Cold rubber is called "cold" because it is made in refrigerated kettles at temperatures as low as 41 degree Fahrenheit. In contrast to the 122 degree temperature formerly used.

This significant development greatly increases the toughness of rubber. Used in passenger car tire treads it gives more mileage than was ever obtained with crude rubber.

B. F. Goodrich maintains that research keeps them "first in rubber." One of the firm's latest

Auer Suggests Giring Walls Spred Satin Sand Finish

"Tony" Auer, owner of Auer's Paint Store in Stroudsburg, says, "Give your old walls a beautiful sand finish by simply adding granules to Spred Satin" ... This process covers unsightly cracks, seams and blemishes ... Spred Satin with granules makes a beautiful and durable sand textured finish that will last for years ... A beautiful swirl effect is easily obtained by applying full wet coat of Spred Satin sand finish with a regular paint brush. Then use a whisk broom in a full circular motion. A wavy grain effect is obtained by applying the same way, then, with a whisk broom draw up and down in a wavy motion ...

Pointers for a quality sand finish job using Spred Satin and granules:

Clean the surface—Make sure the surface is clean and dry before applying the sand finish. May be applied on plaster, wallboard and masonry surfaces.

Remove—Grease, glue size, kalsomine, loose paint before applying sand finish.

Stir—Keep Spred Satin granules mixture well stirred at all times.

Apply—Satin sand finish in a full wet coat with a standard brush or Spred brush using a semi-circular motion to simulate troweled effect of sand finished plaster.

Beautiful colors—All Spred Satin twelve decorative colors, white and bone white, blend beautifully with granules and produce a professional sand finish effect.

Easy to apply—Simply stir and mix well; after granules are added apply with well-filled brush. Dries in 30 minutes; hard in one hour.

Cleanable—Spred Satin sand finish may be cleaned with scrub brush, soap and water. Will not flake, chip or rub off.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Things were a-humming yesterday — not only in the world of politics with office holders clanking thick all up and down Seventh St., but in the world of women's affairs.

Though what's so womanish about discussing Iran and Egypt, I don't know. Anyway, that's what the AAUW members were doing and seriously, too. However Kurt Wimer didn't face the horde quite alone. H. A. Lorenz came down from Barrett particularly to hear him. Queer that two men whose interests are so similar shouldn't have met before.

But that's the way it goes, we're so busy that few of us discover, except by accident, that we share some special enthusiasm with the woman next door.

I do suppose there's something a little feminine about planning a club birthday party—but not about admitting with pride that it's their 38th birthday—which is what the Woman's club executives were doing yesterday.

And the East Stroudsburg PTA auction was a great success. Even impressed Wayne Posten, whose a hard man to impress, with their variety and industry—and their bids, too. Made more than $200 they did.

But if you think today was something—just wait until tomorrow—sixteen meetings, my pets—so get the ironing done early and let's get going.

Kurt Wimer Speaks On Iran, Egypt At AAUW Meeting

One of the great obstacles in working out the problems of the Near East is the failure of both leaders and people in those countries to recognize the menace of Communism, Kurt Wimer pointed out last night in a talk given before the local branch of the American Association of University Women at the Stroud Community House.

There was a large attendance of members and guests to hear Mr. Wimer, a member of the social studies faculty at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, who is completing work on his doctor's degree, based on "The Program of the United Nations and World Affairs".

Mr. Wimer last night dealt specifically with Iran and Egypt and the upsurge of nationalism in both countries. In Iran, he pointed out, it has driven out the British oil company, closed down the refineries source of one third of the national revenue. Daily, Iran is becoming poorer and poorer. Passports are no longer issued to its citizens lest they take money out of the country; it has reduced its staff of foreign diplomats, and its tumbling economy is benefitting only Communism, he said.

Yet it is almost impossible to help them. Money loaned to them never reaches the people in a country where the feudal system is still strong; but money loaned with strings attached to its spending cannot be accepted by a country dedicated to increasing not curbing its sovereignty, he pointed out.

Egypt, catching the fever of nationalism, has repudiated its treaty with England on a unilateral basis. However the firm stand of England and the moderation of King Farouk may save the situation there, he said.

His talk was followed by a long discussion period.

At the meeting which preceded the program, Mrs. Henry Slaboski presided. She announced that a local club member, Dr. Veva Dean, was a candidate for one of the national AAUW fellowships for outstanding women scholars for study abroad.

Mrs. J. L. Cohen, membership chairman, announced that Cedarcrest College had been approved as meeting AAUW standards, and its local graduates are now eligible for membership in the local branch.

Saylorsburg — The Progressive Woman's club of Saylorsburg will meet Wednesday night, January 9, at the Fire Hall in Saylorsburg. The civics and education department composed of Mrs. Clarence Budge, Mrs. Richard Dishi, Mrs. Mildred Fritz, Mrs. Ralph Van Buskirk, Mrs. Alex Volpe, Mrs. Kathryn Jones are in charge of the program.

Elton P. Hall of East Stroudsburg, manager of Station, WVPO will be the speaker and an amateur show will follow.

Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Anna Serfas, Mrs. Frank Shick, Mrs. Rose Gower, Mrs. Melvin Hunt, Mrs. Philip Sabatino, Mrs. Clarence Budge, Mrs. Eli Serfas, Mrs. Kermit Frey, Mrs. Bernice Hawk, Mrs. James Serfas, Miss Edith Young, Mrs. George Metzgar Jr., Mrs. Clarence Rubow, Mrs. Helen Boyer, Mrs. Mildred Fritz, Mrs. Lydia Howerter, Mrs. Ida Kunkle.

In addition to the talk by Mr. Hall, and the amateur show given by the members of the club, there will be a talk by Miss Helen Kulp, Monroe County Chairman of the March of Dimes in the woman's division.

Mrs. Marvin Krome, club president has called for an executive board meeting at 7:30 p.m.

PTA Auction Has Spirited Bids, Variety

Eggs were selling at $1.25 a dozen and the hen that laid them went even higher under the gavel of Wayne Posten auctioneer at the great auction sale held last night at the East Stroudsburg Junior High school under the auspices of the East Stroudsburg Parent-Teacher association.

Mr. Posten, who had donated his services for the sales, reported it one of the most varied he had ever cried. There were ducks and rabbits, and four dogs. There were special cakes which brought as high as $3 and $3.50.

There were prize vegetables and canned goods from the Mount Bethel area; there were apples and squash and farm produce, as well as homemade candy, lamps, picture frames, curtains, and a long, long list of household articles.

Michael Hannon, PTA president, opened the sale, and Mrs. Earl Slutter and Mrs. Harry Heller were co-chairmen of the project, with assisting members in all the district served by the school.

Music Club Tonight The Music Study club will meet tonight at the Stroud Community House when Mrs. William Levering and Mrs. Theodore Hsu are co-chairmen of the program which will be based on "Music at the Turn of the Century."

Birth Announced A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Roeder, of Swiftwater at the General Hospital of Monroe County on Sunday. The mother is the former Dorothy Palmer.

Woman's Club Prepares For Birthday Meeting On Books

Announcement of the annual birthday party and member participation meeting of the Stroudsburg Woman's club was made at the executive board meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Stroud Community House with Mrs. George T. Robinson, president, presiding.

The club will meet on Monday, January 14, when with Mrs. Elizabeth Kane, county librarian, as moderator, four members will give book reviews: Mrs. Ernest H. Wyckoff, Mrs. Alford J. Meyers, Mrs. Irving B. Kiffin and Mrs. John L. Rumsey.

The choral group from East Stroudsburg High school under the direction of Miss Bettija Goodall will sing at the birthday meeting.

At the opening of the meeting, a letter which the club will include with other greetings to be distributed by the Welcome Wagon was read. The letter welcomes newcomers to the community and explains that while the club membership is limited to 200 members, it is limited merely by meeting space, and that members are received in order of their application as vacancies occur.

The next meeting of the lodge has been postponed from January 16 to January 23, in order to avoid conflict with the show planned by the Temple Israel.

Sisterhood To Take Part In Round Table

Members of the Sisterhood of the Temple Israel have been invited to join in a round table discussion at the Temple Israel on Wednesday night, January 9, when the chief speaker will be Rabbi Aaron Dekker, of Philadelphia, on the topic "Israel and Zionism."

At the recent meeting of the Hadassah, with Mrs. David Katz presiding, Miss Eloise Bryan, psychologist for the Stroudsburg school district, was the guest speaker. Her topic was "Understanding Our Children," and she spoke from her experience as a special consultant for the department of public instruction of the state of New Jersey, as well as a teacher and principal with many years of dealing with children. A discussion followed her talk.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sumner Schwartz, Mrs. Jerome Jacobs, Mrs. Herman Sher, Mrs. Herman Brown, Mrs. Brown added special refreshments in honor of her new grandson, Miss Frances Everitt was a guest at the meeting.

The Sisterhood is cooperating in the big All Star Revue to be given on Wednesday night, January 16, and plan their next meeting for February 5.

Zion Church Congregation Notes Gains

Progress in many fields of endeavor were reported at the annual congregational meeting of Zion Evangelical and Reformed church following a congregational supper prepared by the Woman's Guild and served by the Girls' Guild of the church.

Harry Hoffman, president of the consistory, presided at the meeting when plans were announced for the organization of a Young Married Couples class within the church. A junior choir is also to be organized, it was announced, and Mrs. Melvin Dunn is now lining up the various age groups. The senior choir has increased its membership and organized on a formal basis, it was announced.

The congregational also voted to omit Sunday evening services at the church after the Easter season, except for special events.

The annual report of the pastor, Rev. Frank H. Blatt, also showed progress along many lines. A new heating system has been installed in the church during the past year, and renovations have been made to the parsonage.

The reports of the classes also showed great contributions and successful projects during the year.

Elders whose terms expired were re-elected for three-year terms: Harry Hoffman and Millard Marsh. Re-elected as deacons for a term of two years were Foster Bossard, Bernard Rowe, Hugh Altomose and Arch Pussinger.

Junior Choir Entertained At Holiday Party

Pocono Lake — The newly organized Junior Choir of the Pocono Lake Methodist church, held its holiday party on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Maude Keiper.

One pound of boneless stew meat will serve four people for one meal if you have lots of gravy and vegetables with it.

I once heard a fascinating lecture on Oriental rug making in which the speaker described various mistakes that often occur in the weaving of a pattern... discrepancies that show the rug to be hand loomed and which frequently add to its beauty. He told of one rug that had a fantastic star at the side, evidence of a small boy's meddling when his father left his workmanship unguarded. Whether this is pretty fantasy or truth, the fact remains that the things worked by hand are those which become most precious to us, and any woman who wishes to make her own rug these quiet-by-the-fire winter evenings will surely cherish the result as much as she would cherish a purchased rug far greater value.

Making a rug is no little feat as it sounds nor so expensive. Wyckoff's Art Goods department is offering three designs in Buella rugs at the moment, and the stamped cloth, made for long wear, sells for only $26. There are two sizes... 28 by 40 inches, and 30 x 54 inches. One hundred percent wool yarn is 45c a skein, and the rug book is 29c. Frames are not necessary, Amy Ellenberger assures me, but cost $1.75 if desired.

There is quite a thrill in being able to point to something beautiful and say, "I made it"... whether it's a ruffie on the kitchen window or a little girl's dress. And a new rug, aglow with the color and care stitched into it, can be a truly "hearth-warming" experience.

Another pleasant, home-beautifying pastime for these winter evenings is the "packaged painting" that is so simple to do. The design is stamped on canvas along with full coloring instructions. Oil paints and brush are included. It's amazing how professional even the first attempt at painting can be. Some customers are so pleased with their initial effort, they plan to do the entire set. But just a word of advice: when you buy, check the name of your selection and DON'T go by the picture on the lid... every lid bears the same illustration.

Why hide your light under a bushel, when you can use it to brighten up your home?

Clemens' Five, Wyckoff-Sears Gain Victories

Clemens' Service Station and Wyckoff-Sears scored victories in the Biddy Basketball action at the Monroe County YMCA yesterday. Clemens' five took the measure of the Colonial Diner, 19-16, while the Wyckoff-Sears aggregation defeated Koren's Roofers, 34-29.

The opening game found the Colonial Diner club leading 5-4 at the end of the opening quarter and 10-9 at the halfway mark. However, Clemens' contingent came roaring back to dominate the third stanza, 4-2, and the final round, 6-4, for a victory margin of three points.

Second Game

Second game hostilities found Wyckoff-Sears moving out in front in the first stanza, 10-6, and the same organization was on the long end of an 18-14 count at halftime, after both teams had accounted for eight tallies.

The winning aggregation held a 10-8 edge in the third stanza and even though Koren's contingent held a 7-6 advantage during the last round, Wyckoff-Sears walked off the court with a victory by five points.

Biddy Basketball is scheduled for action once again on Wednesday, when Line Material faces the Nash Ramblers at 4 p.m. and Wyckoff-Sears tangles with the Colonial Diner at 4:40.

Kansas Top Cage Machine For Second Week

New York (AP)—For the second straight week, unbeaten Kansas tops the nation's college basketball teams in the Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

Settling down to its regular schedule after winning the Big Seven tournament over the holidays, Kansas thumped Oklahoma for its eleventh consecutive victory.

Kansas drew 38 firsts on the 102 ballots that produced a shuffling but no upheaval in the first ten places.

Illinois, racing past Minnesota to make its record 8-0, clung to second place with 21 firsts. In point score, based on ten for first, nine for second and so on, Kansas led Illinois, 812 to 774.

Number Three

Kentucky climbed a peg to third place on wins over Mississippi and Louisiana State, annexing 12 firsts. Indiana's victory over Michigan for its eighth in a row earned fourth place for the Hoosiers.

St. Louis bettered its position, moving up two notches on wins over Houston and La Salle while Washington, which split a weekend series with Idaho, tumbled from third to sixth.

Kansas State, St. Bonaventure, Seton Hall strengthened their positions among the top ten while Iowa made its first appearance in the select group, moving from twelfth to tenth; St. John's dropped from eighth to twelfth and New York University, beaten by West Virginia, 100-75, fell from sixth to thirteenth.

Six of the first ten teams are unbeaten. They are Kansas (11-0), Illinois (8-0), Indiana (8-0), St. Bonaventure (7-0), Seton Hall (10-0) and Iowa (8-0).

Dodgers Sell Barney To St. Paul Farm Club

Brooklyn (AP)—Brooklyn finally gave up on Rex Barney yesterday and sold the wild, right-handed pitcher to its St. Paul farm of the American Association.

Barney, who could throw a ball as hard as any modern day pitcher, never regained his brilliant 1948 form when he pitched a no-hitter against New York and won 15 games.

Plagued by wildness throughout his career, the erratic speed demon was optioned to the Fort Worth farm last May. He set a new Texas record by walking 16 men in one game. In early September the Dodgers recalled him.

Still Available

Barney, 27, still can be re-acquired by Brooklyn if he shows improvement at St. Paul because the major league club did not use up all its options on him. The fact that he was sold to St. Paul, rather than optioned, seems to indicate, however, that his return is not likely.

The disposal of Barney sliced the roster to 37 men. With Don Newcombe slated to go into service, there soon will be four empty places on the club reserve list.

With hopes of taking up some of the slack, Vice President "Buzze" Bava has invited eight pitchers from the minor league farms to show their stuff to Manager Charley Dressen at Vero Beach, Fla., starting February 20.

Frank White, a 20 game winner with Santa Barbara, Calif., in class "C", and Art Fabor, who had a 9-10 record with Elmira, N. Y., in the class "A" Eastern league, will get a tryout.

Campanella To Skip Surgery

Brooklyn (AP)—Roy Campanella, Brooklyn's outstanding catcher, changed his mind yesterday and decided not to undergo an operation for the removal of bone chips in his left elbow.

Four Chips

The National League's most valuable player for 1951 had his elbow x-rayed last week and the pictures showed four bone chips. Campanella was all set to enter Long Island College Hospital yesterday and have the operation performed by Dr. Herbert Fette today.

But when Lee Scott, of the Dodgers' publicity staff, arrived at Campy's home this morning to escort him to the hospital, the stocky Negro catcher said he changed his mind.

Crowe's Club Holds Down Fourth Place

Last Saturday's four-point victory over Drucker and Young enabled the Crowe Insurance bowling team, representing Monroe County, to gain a firm hold on fourth place in the Delaware Valley League and move within striking distance of the third place Dainty Potato Chips contingent.

Crowe's five is the fourth best club in the circuit at the present time, with 31 games won and 29 lost, to trail the Dainty Potato Chips crew by one game in each column.

Riegel Ridge and the Fleas club, currently tied for the number five spot, are far behind Crowe's contingent, with 37 wins and 33 setbacks.

VFW Squad Takes Measure Of Deerhead Inn On YMCA Court

Veterans of Foreign Wars ran over Deerhead Inn, 56-42, in an industrial league game played at the Monroe County YMCA last night. The Vets moved into the lead in the first period and remained out in front the remainder of the distance.

Paced by John Possinger and Harvey "Holsey" Bergman, the VFW quintet moved into a 12-11 advantage at the end of the first round, then racked up 19 counters in the second quarter, while Deerhead Inn came through with only 12. The Vets were on the long end of a 31-23 count at the half-way mark.

Even Battle
Both clubs accounted for 12 markers in the third stanza, but the Vets put the contest on ice with a 13-7 edge during the final round.

Possinger came up with 19 and Bergman 14 in a winning cause, while John Howe tallied 13 points, on six field goals and a single foul shot, for the losing contingent.

NCAA Anxious To Form New "Sanity Code"

Cincinnati (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association, under fire for its inability to curb excesses in college athletics, will try to formulate a new "sanity code" this week to replace the one which was junked a year ago.

Working in close harmony with one group which has criticized the NCAA sharply, the committee of college presidents representing the National Council on Education, the NCAA council will offer legislation which, if accepted, will give the organization board regulatory powers.

"We will have a sanity code, but implementation and enforcement will be left to the member institutions and conferences," said Hugh C. Willett, NCAA president, in outlining the proposed legislation at a news conference yesterday.

Principles
"It will be largely a statement of general principles and we are confident that the various conferences will set up detailed regulations. For instance, one amendment calls for observance of sound academic standards. It isn't possible to establish nationwide rules specifying certain standards because conditions vary so greatly in different places. But each institution or conference can establish its own rules."

"We think we have potent means of enforcement brewing," Willett added.

Willett also revealed that President John Hannah of Michigan State, chairman of the presidents' committee, and Dr. Arthur Adams, NCE president and ex-officio member of the committee, will attend a joint meeting of the NCAA council and executive committee Thursday to report on their efforts to solve the problems of athletics.

Sheldon Otis of Wayne University will give a report for the National Student Association at the same meeting.

Trout To Be Stocked In Spring

Floyd Bachman, Monroe County fish warden, issued a reminder yesterday that there was no stocking of legal trout last fall in Pennsylvania, due to the extremely low water conditions in most streams throughout Pennsylvania at that time.

C. A. French, executive director, issued a statement informing fishermen of the state that investigations made by the fish commission biologists and wardens showed that many streams were dangerously low last fall and, in extreme cases, streams were almost completely dry.

Less Suitable
Although the streams in the Keystone State were unusually low last fall, it is generally true that streams are less suitable for stocking during the autumn months than at any other period of the year. Creel census studies throughout Pennsylvania and other states have shown that spring-planted trout give the highest returns to the angler.

C. R. Buller, chief fish culturist, has shown that in previous years less than ten percent of the total annual planting of catchable trout were released in the fall. Buller also assured that streams previously stocked in the fall will now receive plantings in the spring.

Junior High To Play

East Stroudsburg Junior High, featuring a team of seventh and eighth graders, will play its initial home game of the season today, at 4 p. m. Portland school cagers will supply the opposition.

Committee Of College Presidents Recommend End Of Scholarships, Limiting Of Seasons

Washington (AP) — A special sports committee of college presidents recommended last night that all athletic scholarships be abolished and that football practice and games be limited to the period from September 1 to the first Saturday in December.

In a sweeping list of proposals which would change completely many practices now common in college sports, the presidents also recommended:

That all post-season games of any kind be abolished.

That basketball games and practice be confined to the period between December 1 and March 15.

That baseball games and practice be confined to the period between March 1 and commencement.

That not only should no freshman be allowed to play on a varsity team, but also that any transfer from a junior college should put in a year of residence before being allowed to play.

That scholarships should be given strictly on the basis of the student's educational ability and his needs.

No Case

That in no case should any scholarship be for more than the educational expenses at an institution.

Dr. John Hannah, president of Michigan State College and chairman of the special committee set up by the American Council on Education, disclosed the plans at a news conference.

The new athletic code now goes to the executive committee of the council on education for approval or disapproval.

There is no indication how soon it will act, but Hannah told reporters previously that he hoped the sweeping new code would go into effect by the start of the next school year.

Dr. Hannah stressed that all existing contracts would be honored.

This means that bowl games in which conference have agreements that still have a year or two to run would be played until the contracts run out.

He said that it also meant that athletes holding athletic scholarships would keep them.

In addition to recommending that all out-of-season tournaments be barred, the committee also agreed in-season tournaments should be restricted to those run by the institutions on their own campuses.

As Hannah pointed out Sunday, the job of enforcing this program would rest with the accrediting associations of the country. A school which got out of line athletically, he said, would risk its academic standing.

But yesterday Hannah said:

"We hope that the schools, the NCAA and the conferences all bring themselves in line so that this will work."

Stroudsburg Cagers Trip Middle Smithfield

Middle Smithfield—Stroudsburg Junior High school took matters into its own hands yesterday afternoon and scored almost at will against Middle Smithfield, while accounting for a 41-26 victory on the losing team's home court.

One Tilt On Agenda

Pocono Jets and Fisher's cage machine clash in a Senior Y league basketball game today at the Monroe County YMCA. Action is listed for 7:15 p. m.

Parkland Triumphs

Fountain Hill — Parkland High school won its second Lehigh-Northampton League game of the season against one last night, by taking the measure of Fountain Hill, 56-48.

Here is a puzzling little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Today's events may move along calmly, then change without warning.

Be ready with reason, tact, patience.
If a door of success closes against you, other doors will open in other directions.

November 21 to December 20 (Sagittarius)—Better not crowd yourself or others; some things uncertain. Stay to ponder, are you doing it right?
Reserve reasonable amount of energy for the unexpected, and take some relaxation.

December 21 to January 20 (Capricorn)—
You will have to deal with certain emergency or emergencies. Some hindrances that could cause trouble, as be on guard, alerted.

January 21 to February 20 (Aquarius)—
Just—Some doubts in a. As a rule all in stride; wait until later. If you should, for fear of being ridiculed, it conditions confronting you, find by what "was" or what you think is concerning.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)— Paint heart never won fair lady, nor did it ever make sense. As a rule all with determined will and you will have a chance to accomplish much toward your aims. If M. factors remain.

YOU BORN TODAY are Capricorn natives, generally self-reliant, but also self-conscious. This is a sign of intelligence. You are deep thinkers, strive after knowledge, seldom are impulsive, deliberate before taking action, and then only after you know what the answers are. This gives you an advantage in handling responsible position as manager, executive, teacher, public figure. Curb fear of being ridiculed, it will hamper your forward movement.
Solve your education and hold fast to religious beliefs. Birthdates: Willie Collins, Eng. novelli; Cyrus W. Field, ocean cable pioneer; Peter Arno, painter, cartoonist.

BEER

*HERE'S PROOF that clear, dry Schaefer has what practically everyone wants in a beer. In an independent survey among people who drink beer, 12 out of every 13 who tasted Schaefer liked it. No wonder more people are drinking Schaefer—America's oldest lager beer—than ever before in Schaefer's 110-year history.

Presbyterians Plan Program Of Education

Rev. Ernest T. Campbell announces that one of the most important meetings scheduled for the First Presbyterian church in Stroudsburg in recent years is to be held tomorrow night at 7:15 in the Church school auditorium.

The occasion is an All-Church Christian Education program to which every Church school parent, teacher and officer has been personally invited. The program will revolve around three film strips designed by the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian church, USA. The strips show how the church and the parent and the child can combine their energies more effectively for the teaching of the Christian faith.

Before 1952 comes to a close this program will have been presented in every church in the Presbyterian denomination. The presentation in the local church will be in charge of Roger Dunning and William Clark. These men have undergone special training for this job and have made similar presentations in other churches in Lehigh Presbytery.

Immediately following the presentation of these visual aids Church school teachers will remain so that parents might have the chance to speak with them.

Holy Name Unit Plans Meeting

The Holy Name society will meet at 8 p. m. in St. Matthew's Catholic school auditorium.

Committees are requested to report on plans for the Communion breakfast to be held Sunday, Jan. 13 at 10 a. m. at the Penn-Stroud hotel.

Rev. Leo Flood, president of King's College, Wilkes-Barre, will be the principal speaker following the Communion breakfast.
